Communist Head Asks Ouster of Von Hindenburg

Clara Zetkin, 75, Opens
First Session of Reichstag
GOERING PRESIDENT
German Chief In Accord With Chan-
cancellor's Plans

Berlin.—(P)—Hermann Wilhelm Goering, one of Adolf Hitler's chief lieutenants, commander of the famous Von Richthofen flying squadron during the World war, was elected president of the Reichstag today by 387 to 218.

Berlin.—(P)—The impeachment of President Von Hindenburg and the cabinet of Chancellor Franz von Papen on charges that they had violated the constitution was demanded today by Clara Zetkin, 75-year old "grand mother of the German revolution" and a Communist leader, when in the capacity of senior member she opened the first session of the new Reichstag.

Three hours before the session assembled the president announced he was in complete accord with the program presented to him by the chancellor and that he was ready to provide emergency decrees to put it into operation. In government went before the new Reichstag with defiance for the opposition, the bulk of which is led by Adolf Hitler.

"The immediate duty of the Reichstag is to overthrow the cabinet and impeach the Reich's president and the ministers for violation of the constitution," Frau Zetkin said in her opening address.

Power Seized
"Political power for the moment has been seized by a presidential cabinet formed by the elimination of the Reichstag," she continued. "This cabinet is the hand maiden of trust and of monopoly capital, and of the big landowners. Its moving forces are military generals."

"Despite its all-powerful character this government has failed miserably to solve domestic and foreign problems."

"To take impeachment to the supreme court is to throw the economy of the Reichstag into confusion, and a non-confidence motion in the government by the Reichstag can only be the signal for mobilizing the masses outside parliament."

Favors Revolution
A proletarian revolution, the aged Communist said, is the best means for overhauling the economy. She urged strikes and uprisings in various countries to show revolutionary leaders in Germany that they were not alone.

"The demand of the hour is a united front of all workers to throw back Fascism and retain to the work slaves the power of their organizations," she continued, reverting to the domestic situation.

"All differences of political, trade union, religious and philosophic nature must be put into the background."

Her 45-minute speech ended with the dramatic passage: "I open the Reichstag in fulfillment of my duty as senior president. I hope to live to see the happy day when as senior president I can open the first workers' and peasants' congress of soviet Germany."

Frau Zetkin's address was delivered very slowly and with great effort. Frequently she wiped perspiration from her brow. She had left a sick bed in Moscow in order to be present at the session.

House Silent
Even when impeachment of the president was demanded by her the house remained silent in a manner almost incredible. Nobody rose in protest.

Meanwhile, outside the Reichstag building about a block away, crowds of Hitlerites were yelling in chorus: "Germany, awake!"

After Frau Zetkin's speech the Reichstag proceeded with roll call. Isolated bodies of Nazi on the Platz der Republik, shouting their war cries, broke through police lines at various points and attempted to rush the Reichstag entrances.

They were repulsed by police reinforcements and driven in the direction of Potsdamerplatz. Police said there were no casualties.

Davis Pleads Not Guilty to 2 Indictments

Bail in Alleged Lottery, Conspiracy Set at $1,000

TRIAL SEPTEMBER 19
Senator Refuses to Comment on Pinchot's
Request

Clara Zetkin, 75, "Grand Mother of the German Revolution," and Communist leader in opening the first session of the new Reichstag today demanded impeachment of President Von Hindenburg and the cabinet of Chancellor Franz von Papen. She charged they had violated the constitution.

New York.—(P)—United States Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania pleaded not guilty today to two indictments charging him with distribution and sale of lottery tickets and with conspiracy. Bail was set at $1,000.

A plea of not guilty was also entered by Theodore G. Miller, co-defendant with Davis in the two indictments.

Miller is a publicity man and an executive of the Loyal Order of Moose, of which Davis is the national leader.

The indictments refer to alleged lotteries said by federal investigators to have been conducted by the fraternal organization in connection with its benevolent undertakings for disabled members and dependents of members.

Miller's bail also was set at $1,000.

Senator Davis was indicted by the federal grand jury on Aug. 18 with six other men and the Western Union Telegraph company. All but Davis and Miller pleaded not guilty before today.

The cases set forth in today's indictments were put down on the trial calendar for Sept. 19. Charles H. Tuttle, former United States attorney who appeared with Charles J. Margotti of Pittsburgh for Senator Davis, told the court that in view of certain circumstances he might call upon the prosecutor with a request for an even earlier trial.

Although all the defendants except Davis and Miller had entered pleas of not guilty earlier to most of the indictments, which were rearranged today to answer the indictments which named them with Davis and Miller.

They were Bernard C. McGuire of New York and Aurora, Ill. and Raymond Walsh. They pleaded not guilty again.

Refuses to Comment
As soon as the case had been placed on the trial calendar Senator Davis left the federal building with his lawyers.

Outside the court room he was asked if he had anything to say about Gov. Pinchot's request, made after the indictments were handed down, that Davis withdraw from the senate race in Pennsylvania.

"No comment," he said.

Later Tuttle and Margotti issued the following statement in his behalf:

"While we do not wish to discuss the case in detail at this moment, we do say that it can be speedily demonstrated that Senator Davis is entirely innocent of these charges; that he had no part in the plan under which the charity balls were held and that he neither took nor got a penny from the proceeds thereof."

"Furthermore, we are of the clear opinion that this plan, which in substance has also been used by a large number of the most honorable, fraternal, charitable and other societies in the country, is not violative of any federal statute."

"The distinguished service of Senator Davis to the Loyal Order of Moose and to the country, in the founding and upbuilding of Mooseheart and in promoting the sense of fraternity among men, puts his character beyond the reach of suspicion and is itself a refutation of these charges."

Storm Damages
Florida Coast
Crop Loss Heavy—Issue
Hurricane Warnings
Over Entire Area

Miami, Fla.—(P)—The tropical storm which blew in from the Bahamas yesterday was reported coursing across the sparsely inhabited everglades of the southern Florida peninsula early today leaving behind comparatively superficial damage.

Meteorologist R. W. Gray of the Miami Weather bureau said the center of the disturbance apparently passed inland over Homestead, 30 miles south of here, at 9:30 o'clock last night after bringing stiff winds and heavy rains to a long expanse of the lower California coast.

On advice of the Washington Weather bureau, however, hurricane warnings remained up all night from Palm Beach southward on the east coast. The warnings extended around the tip of the peninsula northward on the west coast to Boca Grande.

Geese, Chickens Too Noisy; Quiets Them With Laughing Gas

Chicago.—(P)—What happened to Sol Levin's geese and chickens was no laughing matter, so he went to court about it.

"Something has happened to them," he told Judge William E. Helander. "They're so quiet you can't hear them."

Judge LeLander called for exhibits. The birds were placed on a front bench, where they sat while the court asked an explanation of Theodore Fishman, who had previously complained that they made so much noise he couldn't sleep.

"That's easy," Theodore replied. "I went out and got the mildest anesthetic I could find—so mild it can hardly be classified as dangerous. It's laughing gas, and I dumped a container of it on Mr. Levin's coops."

The judge took another look at the poultry and then decided to dismiss the proceedings, no damage having been done.

Mrs. Ferguson 404 Votes Ahead Of Gov. Sterling

Reports from Isolated Precincts Put Woman
Ahead in Primary Race

Dallas, Texas.—(P)—Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson's lead over Governor R. S. Sterling for the Democratic nomination for governor was boosted to 1,463 votes this afternoon on returns to the Texas Election bureau from all 254 counties in the state, 237 complete. The vote was: Ferguson 474,813; Sterling 473,350.

Dallas, Texas.—(P)—Revisions in vote compilations and reports from distant or isolated precincts, today placed Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson 404 votes ahead of Gov. R. S. Sterling for the Texas Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

For the third time in this seessaw run-off primary, in which nearly one million votes were cast last Saturday, the only woman governor Texas had held the advantage. Twice since she was in office she has been an unsuccessful candidate, losing to Dan Moody and to Sterling two years ago.

The last announcement of the Texas Election bureau gave Mrs. Ferguson, wife of the impeached Governor James E. Ferguson, 473,000 votes; Sterling 472,686.

Both candidates have expressed confidence of having won the nomination. The victor will not be definitely known until after the official count Sept. 12.

Thirty-four of the state's 254 counties had not yet reported returns designated as complete.

Passenger Train Hits Freight; Two Injured

Cedar Rapids, Iowa.—(P)—Two trainmen were injured severely and passengers were shaken up early today when a passenger train crashed into the rear end of a freight train near Atkins, 10 miles west here.

The cars and track also were damaged in the collision, between the Milwaukee railroad passenger train No. 8, running from Omaha to Chicago, and the slow-moving freight.

The injured were John Riddle of Savanna, Ill., fireman on the passenger train, and Dan Reel, 55, of Perry, conductor of the freight.

Racine.—(P)—Search for the body of Laura D. Menge, 50, Racine commander of the Daughters of the G. A. R., was resumed by coast guardsmen today in a water-filled quarry off Highway 42 where she is believed to have committed suicide yesterday.

A hat, purse and jacket belonging to Miss Menge were found near the edge of the quarry by John Shortz, Racine. Miss Menge lived with her brother, Herman Menge, and a sister, Mrs. Louise Rokker. Her sister said she had been ill lately, but had not appeared despondent.

11 Deputies Hurt in Iowa Farm Strike

ARREST THIRTEEN
Chamber of Commerce
Seeks Aid From Three States

Omaha, Neb.—(P)—Mayor R. L. Metcalfe of Omaha, today ordered city officials to break up the blockade just outside the city limits by farm holiday strikers last night.

The mayor, in his order invoked a section of the city charter that gives Omaha jurisdiction for three miles beyond its limits. A blockade against milk and fresh farm produce, the mayor ruled, is a health matter.

Des Moines, Iowa.—(P)—Law enforcement officials began a new drive on several sectors of the farm war for higher prices today to prevent further violence, following a flareup in which 11 special deputies were injured.

The 11 officers were hurt in a clash with picketing farmers near Cushing, Iowa, last night. A running fight between the farmers and 50 officers occurred while the deputies were escorting five truck loads of hogs from the farm of William Turner, of near Moline, to the Ida-cou-line. The deputies said the strikers attacked them with pipe and sticks.

Of the 11, H. Vander Steeg, Harry Barnitz and Paul Cran were the most seriously hurt. Steeg suffered several fractured ribs, as well as cuts and bruises.

Determined to break up the picket lines around Des Moines, county authorities moved to enforce with an iron hand their edict that the roads into this capital city of Iowa be kept open. Thirteen strikers or sympathizers were arrested, and Sheriff Charles E. Keeling said he would swear in 100 special deputies to gain his point.

Meanwhile the chamber of commerce at Sioux City, one of the strategic points in the farmers' holiday movement, asked that state aid come from Iowa, South Dakota and Nebraska to put an end to the strike. Conditions in the Sioux City area were described by the chamber as "intolerable," and that the local

Flood Dangers Averted As River Water Recedes

Mellen, Wis.—(P)—After a rise of 12 feet above normal yesterday the Bad river was receding today and danger of a serious flood was averted.

Preparations had been made to blow out the Lake Superior Electric Power Co. dam if necessary. Many residents of the area were ready to move their household goods.

Devil's Creek, which had flooded light houses in "Tannery town," a low district at the east edge of the city, was approaching normal Tuesday.

Guard Confessed Slayer To Halt Suicide Attempt

Marshall, Ill.—(P)—Hubert C. Moor, 31 year old Robinson, Ill., high school teacher, reported by officials to have confessed the slaying of his wife, Marjorie, 34, was being kept under constant guard in his cell today to prevent any possible attempt at suicide.

The teacher was said by Sheriff James Turner to have become morose and sullen since confessing the slaying which he blamed on "unwashed dishes."

The Rev. A. E. Wrenthorn, pastor of a Christian church at Indianapolis, and father of Mrs. Moor, visited county authorities yesterday in efforts to aid prosecution of his son-in-law. The preacher, who expressed his confidence in Moor immediately after the slaying Aug.

Waits 4 Years for Money from Uncle
Sam—Gets Nickel

Washington.—(P)—Alonzo L. Keefer planned to settle up his rent with some money the government owed him, but when it came today he decided a nickel cup of coffee would be a more appropriate purchase.

For four years the retired watchman waited to receive the unknown sum due him out of the federal retirement fund. His fingers shook when he opened the official envelope today—to find a check for five cents.

Keefer figures that counting car fare, stamps and the like, he went considerably "in the hole" collecting this debt from Uncle Sam.

Mollison Forced Down On Farm During Storm

Sydney, N. S.—(P)—Homeward bound on his round-trip venture across the Atlantic, Capt. James A. Mollison encountered rain and fog, and as a result his tiny plane was in another farmyard today.

He seems to prefer farmyards to airports. He landed in a field on his arrival from Ireland in Newfoundland 10 days ago. He picked out a farm day before yesterday, en route from New York to St. John, N. B.

The Scot left St. John yesterday for Harbor Grace, but the storm forced him to land. He hoped to get off soon today for Harbor Grace, where he will refuel for the last lap back to London.

Shield Egan From Cross Examination

Attorney Springs Surprise
—Alleged Murderer
Traces Movements

San Francisco.—(P)—Legal strategy shielded Frank J. Egan, former public defender, from a searing cross examination when he took the stand to defend himself against a charge of murdering Mrs. Jessie Scott Hughes, his friend and client, for monetary gain.

The former official, called to the witness chair late yesterday in a surprise move by his attorneys, testified briefly about his movements last April 28 and 29, the days preceding the killing of the 59-year-old widow, and stepped down again after the prosecution had been overruled in seeking to question him about matters not mentioned in his direct examination.

On trial with Albert Tinnin, former convict, Egan contradicted statements of Vernon Dorman, key witness for the state. Dorman confessed he and Tinnin killed Mrs. Hughes on Egan's orders.

Earlier in the day Judge Dunne dismissed Mrs. Myra Rand from the jury after bailiffs and others testified she was in a highly nervous condition. This was done on motion of Golden, who was criticized last Friday by Mrs. Rand who blamed him for what she termed undue delay in the proceedings. An alternate took her place.

Court was in recess today because of the state primary election. The state's rebuttal will be continued tomorrow.

Rumor Possible Change In Mexican Presidency

Mexico City.—(P)—Current rumors that a possible change in the presidency of Mexico was in prospect were given impetus today by a categorical denial that the president had resigned. The denial was issued by the presidency.

It was pointed out that Nefecoro Guerrero Jr., secretary to the president in the statement said only that President Pascual Ortiz Rubio had authorized him to "categorically deny the rumor that he had resigned his high post."

The statement, however, did not say the president would not resign in the near future.

As proof that things politically were undisturbed, Guerrero pointed out that there was "unquestionable harmony and political relationship between Ortiz Rubio and General Plutarco Elias Calles."

Unable to Determine Cause of Train Wreck

Kenosha.—(P)—Official inquiry into the derailment of a North Shore electric passenger train near here Aug. 20 in which one person was killed was completed yesterday when a coroner's jury decided the cause of the wreck is unknown.

The jury accepted in effect the conclusion reached by L. P. Atwood, Wisconsin Public Service commission engineer, who testified he was unable to observe the cause of the derailment.

The jurors chose between Atwood's conclusion and the statement of H. A. Johnson, general manager of the Chicago Rapid Transit company, employed by the North Shore railroad as technical expert, who testified before the interstate Commerce commission that a defective wheel casting caused the wreck.

Bank Messenger Robbed of $21,300 By Four Bandits

Stage Thrilling Daylight
Robbery While Milwaukee Crowds Look On

Milwaukee.—(P)—Four robbers commanding a west side street corner with machine gun and pistols, today took $21,300 from a messenger of the Badger State bank in a spectacular holdup.

The robbers crowded the automobile of the messenger, Kenneth Miller, 19, to a curb and started to work. Their automobile, standing crossways on the busy west McKinley-ave, snarled up traffic. A street car drew up to within 60 feet, giving 30 passengers a closeup view of the enactment of modern crime.

Several motorists were even closer. With Miller was Paul Rother building superintendent of the Badger State bank who was serving as a guard while Miller took checks and currency downtown for deposit in the First Wisconsin National bank. Neither Miller nor Rother was armed.

The four robbers were masked and all were men of more than average height. With Miller's car up against the curb three sprang out.

One reached into Miller's car for the satchel, which contained the money and, in addition, $31,658 in cancelled checks and $380 in coupons clipped from bonds.

Two other robbers trained their machine guns on pedestrians and motorists Fred Niederman, in the automobile nearest the robbers, started to climb from his machine.

"Beat it," said a machine gunner waving his weapon menacingly. Niederman did.

Apparently the robbers had planned to flee east into the downtown section. But the street car blocked the way in that direction, and they wheeled through a filling station driveway to speed west.

The robbers drove a light blue sedan on which were license plates stolen from Arthur S. Stayer of Kenosha, sales manager of the Allen-A. company. They were taken Saturday night when Trayer's car was in front of a Kenosha theatre.

Chamber Adopts Economy Program

Urge Groups to Insist on Tax Reduction Pledges
From Candidates

Milwaukee.—(P)—A resolution urging all organized groups in the state to insist on a pledge from all candidates for public office to work for economy in government and reduction of taxes was adopted by the Wisconsin State Chamber of Commerce at its second annual meeting, devoted to discussion of taxation, here yesterday.

The state chamber proposed as methods of reducing government costs the elimination of unnecessary governmental functions; elimination of unnecessary employment; reduction of wages and salaries; reduction in cost of operation; and in public improvements; and refraining from undertaking any public improvements not absolutely necessary.

The resolution said that shifting of the tax burden from one group to another, from one governmental unit to another, or from one kind of tax to another, merely tends to cause discord and does not reduce the taxes which must be paid.

Tax committees of local chambers were urged to co-operate with public officials in the preparation of 1933 budgets in another resolution.

A recommendation for reduction or elimination of "annual appropriations in the nature of contributions for activities that are not strictly county functions" in times of depression was made by Robert B. Wood, president of the Wisconsin County Boards' association, here named county fairs as an example.

Governor Not Bound by Rules of Judicial Procedure

CITIZENS PRECEDENTS
Curtin Hails Ruling as
"Great Victory for Mayor"

Albany, N. Y.—(P)—The right of Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt to remove Mayor James J. Walker from office has been established by a court decision.

Supreme Court Justice Ellis J. Starley ruled last night that the governor had the authority to remove the mayor, and that in conducting the hearing he was not bound by the courts to adhere to any rules of judicial procedure.

Justice Starley cited precedents by which he observed the governor might be said to be in error in three instances in his conduct of the proceedings, but he pointed out that the courts have no right to interfere.

"Courts have no power over his (the governor's) person," he wrote, "and they cannot commit him for a disobedience of judicial process."

Responsible to People
"For errors, if any, of law or of fact in the proceeding now before him he is responsible, not to the courts, but to the people and his own conscience."

In reply to Mayor Walker's contention that he is not being given a fair hearing because, instead of calling before him all the witnesses who testified against the mayor before the Hofstadter legislative committee, Governor Roosevelt has admitted the committee's records as evidence, Justice Starley, after quoting previous interpretations of the law, observed:

"The requirement for a fair trial and the provisions of section 34 of the constitution officers law do not require the public officers' judgment in the selection of witnesses, nor the wholesale receipt and use of testimony taken by an investigating committee. . . . The relation in this proceeding (Mayor Walker) as a matter of common justice, is entitled to receive that full measure of protection which has been accorded to others."

Justice Starley said that, as he interpreted the law, the mayor could be removed "only for cause, and for a cause relating to some act or omission on the part of the officer which amounts to official misconduct or violation of public trust, or one that involves moral turpitude."

Basis of Charges
"Charges when presented should be subjected to that test," he wrote, "and when they fail to meet it should be rejected as a basis for the exercise of the power of removal."

"The act or neglect justifying the removal must have relation to the administration of office during the term which the officer is serving has been pronounced and followed by numerous executive and judicial authorities."

The mayor has contended that the Seabury "conclusion" on which is based the demand of the committee of 1926 for his removal, rather than his official life, has pointed out that most of the financial transactions involved took place during his first term in office.

John J. Curtin, Walker's chief counsel, interpreted Justice Starley's observations as "a great victory for the mayor," even though the ruling stated the courts had no right to interfere. Governor Roosevelt said he would have no comment until he had studied the decision with his counsel.

The hearing, postponed because of the death of the mayor's brother, is to be resumed at 12:30 p. m. Friday.

Man Killed, Sheriff Wounded in Ambush

Pierce, Neb.—(P)—Gunmen ambushed a sheriff's car northwest of here this morning, wounded Sheriff Ed Schwartz and killed Paul Lowery, O'Neill.

The sheriff after the shooting stopped two cars disarmed their drivers and brought them here. Two other men and a woman were arrested later at the farm home of Jack Hixson, near where the shooting occurred and brought to Pierce.

Sheriff Schwartz was wounded in one finger of his left hand when fired upon from the roadside about 3:30 a. m. this morning. Most of the shot passed in front of him, peppering the side of Lowery's head, neck and back. He died within a few minutes.

The shooting occurred on Highway 10, about 10 miles northwest of here. The sheriff's car was a 1931 Ford, and the other cars were a 1931 Ford and a 1931 Ford.

Ask Federal Officials to Halt Strike

Approximately 200,000 British Cotton Weavers Oppose Wage Cut

London.—The call for government intervention in the Lancashire cotton strike grew more insistent today with Sir Kenneth Stewart, former chairman of the Lancashire Cotton corporation, declaring that the step must be taken sooner or later.

"And the sooner the better," he added.

From another quarter there was a similar suggestion. Joseph Compston, former laborite member of parliament, acting as an individual, wired the king that "all classes of Lancashire people look to the ministers to attempt a settlement of this ruinous upheaval."

Despite the demands for intervention, some of which were endorsed by both sides, Sir Henry Betterton, minister of labor, maintained official silence in the absence of unified action on the part of the employers and employees.

Estimates differed as to the extent of the strike, which began yesterday over a 10 percent wage cut and working conditions with about 200,000 weavers to stop work, but it was clear that a great majority of the weavers were idle.

It was estimated today at least 230,000 (currently about $1,245,600) was being lost weekly in wages.

Manchester, England.—Estimates of the extent of the Lancashire textile strike ran as high as 90 percent today as the ranks of the strikers increased, due to the intensity of picketing at operating mills. Union leaders asserted that by tomorrow the walkout would be 100 percent effective among the 200,000 weavers in the manufacturing section of the industry.

In some quarters the strike was characterized as "half-hearted and not successful," but the consensus appeared to be that it was generally a success.

A number of important meetings were taking place in Manchester today, but neither the unions nor the employers had made a move for peace. There was little hope, it appeared, that they would get together this early in the bitter test of strength.

Although no serious disturbances had occurred, several threatening situations brought out the mounted police today. A minor clash came at Barnoldswick, where 2,000 strikers booted and taunted 200 workers leaving the mills. Sixty police charged the crowds with their truncheons and extra police were rushed to the town.

Federal Agencies Eye Farm Strike

They Haven't Done Anything Yet, But They Are Interested

(Post-Crescent-Washington Bureau) Washington.—With the farm strike spreading from its Iowa birthplace into Nebraska and Minnesota and with a state-wide meeting of Wisconsin farmers scheduled for next Saturday in Marshfield to determine whether or not they will join the "holiday" movement, Uncle Sam's various agencies in the national capital are watching developments unofficially but with great interest.

The Department of Justice is the department most likely to be called into official action in connection with the strike, since obstruction of interstate commerce such as the stopping and opening of freight cars, reported as having occurred several times in Nebraska and Iowa, constitutes a federal offense. Apparently no federal action has been taken by this department to date.

The Federal Farm Board reports that all its members know about the strike is "what they see by the papers." All they are doing is watching with interest, they say, and all they can do.

The Department of Agriculture reports just about the same situation and plays safe in adding that its country is always with the farmers by saying that it is not always with the farmers' methods. Officials at the department admit that such methods might probably be successful, as they have been already in Iowa, in raising milk and other dairy products prices but doubt that they will be of much aid to wheat farmers, who have a world market to contend with.

Awarded Prizes on Exhibit on Pigeons

Four first prizes and two seconds were awarded to Leo Mickash, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Mickash, 818 W. Eighth-st., on his exhibit of White King pigeons at the DePere fair this week. His brother, John, received a first prize on his American white rabbits and a first prize on his Cochen bantams, ornamental birds. Leo Mickash, who has won approximately 80 blue ribbons with his pigeons, has not been beaten since 1927.

Boy May Live After Operation on Heart

Vienna.—Rudolf Datelmaier, an 11-year-old boy whose heart was pierced by three bird shot in a hunting accident on Sunday, Monday was reported recovering after a remarkable surgical feat by Dr. Gustave Felsenreich of the University of Vienna.

The surgeon sewed up the three wounds in the still beating heart and later removed shot from the wounded lad's other organs. The entire operation was carried out with the utmost speed and a fatal hemorrhage was forestalled.

BOY SEES NATION HONOR FATHER

There's reason for the proud look on the face of young Frank Jones (extreme right). For there he was in Washington—right on the White House lawn—as his very own dad was being presented with the Congressional Medal of Honor by none other than President Hoover. The decoration was Commander Claude A. Jones' reward for a heroic act of 16 years before when, as an officer aboard the U. S. S. Memphis, he rushed to the rescue of several stricken seamen during an explosion of boilers and steam pipes below decks. At the left is Secretary of the Navy Charles Francis Adams and, beside him, Assistant Secretary of the Navy Ernest Lee Jahncke.

First Ward Boys Build Shacks in Wooded Ravine

The isolation and heavy undergrowth of African jungles has nothing on the jungles discovered this summer in Appleton by two adventurous bands of lads in the First ward.

When the call of the Gypsy trail is too big for these fellows, they pack up their few belongings, raid the family larder, borrow newspapers from the neighbors and start their trek through the tangled orange-tinted greenness of the ragged and colorful ravine behind Bellaire-st. There in their two home-made, but neatly kept shacks they hold their council, toast marshmallows or sizzling weiners on a freshly cut stick.

The boys who built the first habitation in the deep undergrowth include Karlson Kriek, Junior Greason, George Greason, Douglas Ogilvie and William Ogilvie.

Their shack is set up around a circle of slender trees, well upon the hillside toward the railroad tracks. With leaves of the intertwining boughs for a roof, heavy potato sacks for sides and the bare earth for a floor, the circular house measures about 15 feet. Near the center is the open fire-place banked with large stones and covered with a flat grating for an open hearth.

Well-made Chair.

Nearby is a well-made, but rough chair, that once was a crate for oranges. This has a sturdy seat and back, while the other chairs are but boxes of all sizes and descriptions. Boxes serve as supply cupboards and near the entrance is the well piled and cut fagots for kindling fires.

Soon after this group moved into their jungle home, neighboring pioneers came in and with the help of the older boys built a similar shack near-by. Those in the second potato sack house are Edward Freude, Carlton Powers, Donald Powers and Howard Dunbar.

The condition of the two shacks show the boys to be excellent housekeepers, for the bare earth floor is swept bare and clean, hanging forks are hung carefully on one of the trees inside the shacks, the wood is piled evenly and the fireplace is kept clean of straying ashes. In the larger shack the boys have even gone so far as to bring a more home-like atmosphere into their place by training wild cucumber vines to grow around the slender trunks of a tree in the middle of their camp.

From the open doorway stretches an indeterminate trail as zig-zags its way down gully and up bush and brambled covered slopes in the ravine. The only big game that the boys have discovered so far are friendly rabbits scuttling in the underbrush and an occasional stray dog or prowling cat.

Kohler Ship Forced to Land on Lake Michigan

Milwaukee.—A Kohler Aircraft Corporation plane containing seven mechanics and pilots, was forced down on Lake Michigan just outside the breakwater here Tuesday shortly after it had taken off from Maitland field.

Agree to Maintain Scale of Milk Prices

Milwaukee.—An agreement with dairy operators and farmers to maintain the current scale of milk prices on the Milwaukee market during the month of September was reached at a meeting of the Milwaukee Co-operative Milk Producers' association yesterday.

Differences between dairy companies and the farmers are being the regular meeting last Friday and yesterday's meeting was called to continue the discussion.

Launch Padlock Actions in 12 Counties of State

Milwaukee.—Thirty-two padlock actions against roadhouses, saloons and restaurants in 12 of the 27 counties of the eastern district of Wisconsin were filed here Monday by Gilbert A. Vandercok, assistant district attorney. New York.—The world's bread and butter problems are a headache to Sir Arthur Eddington, British astronomer. The man who figured out that the universe is expanding finds finance just a puzzle. "Give me something simple like the Einstein theory," he said on a visit here. "Economics is a horribly confusing and paradoxical subject."

Chaplin Hearing May Amend Divorce Decree

Los Angeles.—When the hearing of Charles Chaplin's protest of his two sons being allowed to take up film careers is continued Friday, it will be as an amendment to the Chaplins' divorce decree.

An appellate court order has restrained Superior Judge H. P. Wood from continuing the hearing of Chaplin's suit in which the comedian sought to prohibit the employment of the two boys, Charles, Jr., 7, and Sidney, 6, in the films as proposed by their mother, Mrs. Lita Grey Chaplin, divorced wife of the comedian.

Chaplin, however, has received the appellate court's permission to continue his argument on an amendment to the Chaplins' divorce decree under which the superior court has power to act at any time for the benefit of children. The actor claims film careers for his sons would be injurious to their "spiritual welfare."

35 Departments of Legion Favor Cash Payment of Bonus

Wisconsin Included in List—Three Vote Against Issue

Washington.—Thirty-five state departments of the American legion were on record today at headquarters for immediate cash payment of the soldiers' bonus.

Three departments thus far have instructed their delegates to the national convention at Portland, Ore., to vote against immediate payment.

On the basis of voting strength at last year's national convention which opposed immediate payment after a direct appeal from President Hoover, the total so far stands 1,063 for immediate payment and 61 against. The total vote in the 1931 convention was 1415. A majority vote will govern.

The departments on record as favoring immediate payment are:

Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, District of Columbia, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Massachusetts, Mississippi, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, New Jersey, New Mexico, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Puerto Rico, Rhode Island, Texas, Virginia, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Utah, Michigan, Tennessee and New Hampshire.

The three departments opposing immediate payment at their convention were Florida, South Carolina and Nebraska.

Seven departments have taken no action on the issue. They are Alabama, Delaware, Georgia, Maine, Vermont, Panama and Wyoming. Several others have yet to hold their conventions.

The South Dakota convention voted in favor of immediate payment, but submitted the question to a referendum of legionnaires. Headquarters officials have been informed they are voting preponderantly in favor of immediate payment.

Dato, Once Poor Peasant Boy Now Controls Millions

Five-twelfths of Late Mrs. McCormick's Property Assigned to Him

Chicago.—A love for mathematics resulted today in elevation of Edward A. Dato, former Russian peasant boy, to the helm of control of large portions of the vast Edith Rockefeller McCormick real estate holdings.

Whether he continues control is problematical but at present Dato, now middle aged, has assigned to him a legacy of five-twelfths of Mrs. McCormick's estate and remains as directing trustee of the Edith Rockefeller McCormick trust, formed by Mrs. McCormick, her close friend, Edwin Krenn, and Dato to further Mrs. McCormick's real estate projects.

Krenn, named beneficiary for five-twelfths of the estate, three weeks prior to Mrs. McCormick's death, assigned to Dato, his partner and friend, any legacy Mrs. McCormick might give him and also his interest in trust for a consideration of $24,000 annually for life. The will of the late Mrs. McCormick's other heirs attempt to break it, then their share also reverts to Krenn.

In 1906, the youthful Dato, all his worldly possessions in a pack on his back, trudged out of his revolutionary native village of Sinjiva, near Kiev, Russia. His father, a Jewish grain collector for the government, and his mother, were dead, leaving young Dato penniless.

Full of Ambition.

Fired with ambition to become an electrical and automotive engineer, he finally worked his way to Switzerland and entered a preparatory school. It was there he met Krenn, a young student of architecture.

Krenn had difficulty with mathematics at school. Dato tutored him over the tough spots in calculus and trigonometry and the two became fast friends. Dato graduated from the Polytechnic institute of the federal college at Zurich, and with money gleaned by tutoring, odd jobs, and even carrying loads of bricks, he went to New York in 1914 where he opened an automotive school in the rear of a barn.

The school prospered and Dato sold his interest, obtaining money enough to attend Valparaiso university, "the poor man's school," in Indiana where he studied English literature and American history. There he met a pretty co-ed, Minnie Noon, whom he later married.

Studied in Chicago.

Dato took post graduate work in engineering at Northwestern university in Chicago and finally received employment in the experimental laboratories of the International Harvester company, headed by Harold F. McCormick, divorced husband of Mrs. McCormick.

A chance glance at a newspaper put Dato in the real estate business. He read that his old friend Krenn was a Chicago visitor—an intimate of Mrs. McCormick. He called Krenn and the latter invited him to become a partner in a real estate venture. When Mrs. McCormick conceived the idea of a trust to manage her real estate projects, Dato was obtained to aid.

Dato, the man, has his idiosyncrasies. For example, despite his knowledge of automobiles, he refuses to own one. The only riding he does is in a company-owned car. He still lives in the non-too-prosperous looking building where he moved with his wife and children years ago, nightly, he climbs four flights of stairs to reach his modest six room flat.

In dress, he is impeccable, but disregards styles, he still wears pleated French shirts with detachable collars and cuffs. He says he dresses for comfort.

About his office, he is known as a hound for details.

"He makes more fuss over a dropped dead match on the floor than he would if one of the offices burned down," Paul D. Angell, general sales manager for the corporation, said. "A burned building might be unavoidable but not a dead match on the floor."

14 Building Permits Issued Last Week

Building permits issued last week by John N. Weiland, building inspector, totaled $7,235. While this was a low total, it was over $3,000 more than the $3,875 of the week before. Of the 14 permits issued last week only one was for a new residence.

See New Revision of Paper Freight Rates

(Post-Crescent-Washington Bureau) Washington.—Because of shippers' protests and errors in published tariff, a general revision of freight rates on Wisconsin and Michigan paper and paper products, once postponed, will probably not be come effective as scheduled on Sept. 1, but will be revised and postponed again, this time until Oct. 15.

First scheduled to become effective on August 1, the new rates, mostly reductions, drew many protests and the interested railroads voluntarily postponed the effective date for a month. Now, through their agents, the roads state that they are actively considering and changing the rates and ask the Interstate Commerce Commission to let them withdraw those slated for Sept. 1.

Two Officers May Face Manslaughter Charges in Detroit

Prosecutor's Demands Backed by Verdict of Coroner's Jury

Detroit.—Backed by the verdict of a coroner's jury that included a protestant minister and a rabbi, prosecutor Harry S. Toy was preparing today to ask for warrants charging two policemen with manslaughter for the death of a prisoner who was wounded while in their custody.

The charges, Prosecutor Toy said, will be preferred against Detective Vincent Hoessel, who police said fired the shot that struck David Cantor, burglar suspect, and Patrolman Cash Ryan who was with him when the shot was fired.

Police said Cantor snatched at the pistol holster of Ryan and attempted to escape as they were taking him to the scene of a recent burglary in an effort to elicit a confession.

Other testimony, including a dying statement from Cantor, was to the effect that the prisoner was beaten both before and after he was shot and that one blow caused a brain concussion.

The jury's verdict, returned late last night, was that Cantor came to his death from "wounds inflicted by an officer of the law who in exercise of his legal duty resorted to unnecessary violence."

Hoessel was detained at police headquarters, deprived of his gun but permitted to retain his badge. Ryan was not detained.

Building Permits

Two building permits were issued Monday by John N. Weiland, building inspector. They were granted to the Fraser Lumber company, 419 N. Division-st., two car garage, cost $150; and Gibson company, Inc., entrance to garage, building, cost $100.

$474,592 Spent By This County For Pension Aid

State's Share Has Amounted to Only $14,588, Alliance Finds

Since the adoption in 1913 of the law providing aid for dependent children, commonly known as the Mothers' Pensions, Outagamie-co expended to Dec. 31, 1931, $474,592, and received only $14,588, as the state's share of the total county payments. Under the law as originally adopted the county was encouraged to believe it would receive one-third of the total amount disbursed for this purpose, or about $153,197.

Referring to the failure of the state to pay the amounts expected by the counties as the state's share of this state aid project the Wisconsin Taxpayers Alliance says:

"The Wisconsin law providing aid for dependent children has undoubtedly benefited many, and no criticism is offered other than that its rapid extension was often without sufficient investigation. It offers a very striking example of the easy and thoughtless initiation by the state of activities that lead to heavy tax burdens upon the people and suggest that counties and other local units carefully count the ultimate costs before entering upon future state aid activities."

"The fact that state aid is offered has many times provided a lure which influenced counties to engage in costly activities which they would not have considered had state aid not been promised."

"The fact that the state, if it chooses to do so, can practically retire from a project once started, as evidenced by the above instance, should be carefully considered. It should be appreciated that the counties cannot as easily get out from under their responsibilities, and that in time they may have to carry the entire load of which they believed the state would bear its share."

"There are many who feel today that the state might well cease consideration of future state aid projects until counties have been reimbursed for at least a portion of the aid they expected from the state treasury in financing aid for dependent children."

Assessment in County is Cut Ten Per Cent

Equalization Board Approves Report of Assessor of Incomes

The assessment of Outagamie county personal property and real estate has been cut approximately 10 per cent under last year, according to the report of Leo G. Toonen, assessor of incomes, which was approved yesterday by the county board equalization committee. Several minor changes in the report, which were recommended by the committee, were made by Mr. Toonen. This included a slight increase over Mr. Toonen's assessment figure for Kaukauna and a slight decrease for Kimberly. Kaukauna's total assessment, however, is lower than last year.

A copy of the report will be sent to the tax commission at Madison. Supervisor L. E. Nichols, town of Ellington, is chairman of the equalization committee. Mr. Toonen declined to discuss his report or the committee's action this morning. In the last two November sessions of the county board there has been considerable criticism of the state law which makes the equalization committee accept the report of the assessor without giving the members permission to make changes they feel necessary. Several supervisors said the committee only acted as a rubber stamp for the assessor, and the county board petitioned the state legislature to change this law to permit the committee to have a choice in making the assessments.

Manufacture of Pulp Explained To Lions Club

C. H. Boyer, Interlake Manager, Describes Process

How a log, covered with bark and swamp mud, and full of knots, is converted into a thin sheet of white pulp, with hardly a speck of black to mar its whiteness, was explained to members of the Lions club at Conway hotel Monday noon, by C. K. Boyer, manager at the Interlake Pulp and Paper mill.

In the manufacture of 100 tons of pulp, a day's run at the local mill, 50 tons of coal, 450 tons of wood, 13 tons of sulphur, 15 tons of limestone, five tons of chlorine, in liquid form and 15,000 pounds of 7 1/2 tons of lime are used, he said.

Speaking of the problems of the pulp industry, he talked briefly about foreign competition, reforestation, and stream pollution. He reminded the Lions that while the paper manufacturers are guilty of destroying forests and polluting streams, the people who use paper are, in a manner, partially responsible. He talked of the attempts that are being made, and have been made in years past, to find some process which will recover the bleach liquor which now goes into the streams, and said that so far no method of handling this product to a commercial advantage has been found.

Process Explained
The process and chemistry of making sulphite pulp was explained by Mr. Boyer. The bark from the log is removed in the wood room, where each block is inspected so that all perceptible bark is removed before the block is placed in the chipping machine. The chips are then placed in the digester, where the lignin in the wood, which holds together the flat, ribbon-like fibres, is broken down. After the pulp is screened, all remaining foreign matter must be bleached through the use of chlorine mixed with lime water, a combination known as bleach liquor.

He spoke of the hazards of working with chlorine, explaining that the men in the plant working with gas or chemicals use gas masks which are inspected every week, and described the methods of keeping chlorine from contact with liquid air.

$750,000 Loan From R. F. C. is Not Available

Money Can't be Borrowed To Finance Paving Program Here

Attempts to secure $750,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to finance Appleton's 1933 paving program ended today with the receipt of a letter from W. E. Joyce, administrative assistant, Engineers Advisory board of the corporation, stating that the law makes no provision for loans of this nature.

Monies from the corporation, the latter advises, will finance only those projects which are self-liquidating in character. Since the cost of a paving program would be repayable only through taxation, the finance corporation cannot advance the money.

The section of the law applying to the Appleton case reads, "A project shall be deemed self-liquidating if such a project will be made self-supporting and financially solvent and if the construction cost thereof will be returned within a reasonable period by means of tolls, fees, rents or other charges, or by such other means, other than by taxation, as may be prescribed by the statutes which provide for the project."

May Abandon Paving

Commenting on the decision, Mayor John Goodland, Jr., said that while the council still has the alternative of floating a bond issue to cover the cost of the proposed program, he hopes that the whole plan will be abandoned.

"I still think a heavy paving program during a period such as this would be an economical venture," he said, "but after attending the conference on taxation at Madison yesterday I am convinced that there is nothing to be had by and see what the next few years will bring. With no knowledge of what the future holds, and with conditions as they are at present, taxes must be cut to the core, and we can't do that by mortgaging the future."

Several weeks ago, the council voted to launch a 20 to 30 mile paving program next year, if the money could be borrowed from the government. A long list of streets to be paved was selected, and a request for a loan of $750,000 was made to the R. F. C. The refusal of the corporation makes it necessary for the council to decide to waive the plan or float a bond issue to finance it.

Eleven Deputies Injured in Strike

Clash With Picketing Farmers While Escorting Hog Shipment

authorities were unable to cope with the situation.

Take No Action

No action was taken by the governors, and Gov. Dan Turner of Iowa indicated he favored leaving the situation in the hands of county officials.

Action against scores of men arrested in Council Bluffs in connection with picketing activities there was imminent today.

Sheriff P. A. Linnson said he was preparing evidence to present to a grand jury.

In Webster-co, Iowa, also, county action was planned. John E. Mulrone, county attorney said he had ready several warrants for filing against pickets, charging them with obstructing public highways.

Nearly 1,000 Plymouth, Woodbury, and Cherokee county farmers holiday adherents who met in Cherokee, were led by their leader, Ed Martin, Plymouth-co farmer, that all violence in connection with picketing must stop.

Meanwhile the holiday grew in several new sectors.

C. F. Eggers, chairman of a Sioux Falls, S. D., Producers association, said a general blockade would begin today, following a failure to boost milk prices 50 cents to a maximum of $1.75 a hundredweight.

Picketing continued near Fort Dodge, Cherokee, and Tipton today. In Council Bluffs, George Darrington, told holiday workers that the marketing of fat cattle soon was imperative and that truckers and farmers alike were losing because of the blockade.

A union of farm cooperatives of 15 states, designed to increase farm commodity prices, will be proposed at the governors' conference in Sioux City, Ia., Sept. 9, by Gov. Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota, he announced Monday.

Olson's Plan

Under Olson's plan all cooperatives would select an executive committee to determine a fair price for farm commodities of all classes. Farm members of the cooperatives would be called on to withhold their products until there was a market based on that price level.

Gov. Charles W. Bryan of Nebraska in a statement said farmers should "picket the Republican party" instead of the highways about the eastern Nebraska border. Commenting on the Sioux City business men's resolution he said: "We are keeping the roads in Nebraska open. There is free entry into Omaha and other cities on the Nebraska side."

A survey of markets in Iowa and nearby border cities Monday indicated a tendency toward slightly lower prices for farm produce with normal receipts at many points and increases at some. At 21 concentration points and 7 packing plants in Iowa and southern Minnesota hog receipts were almost double the figure for a week ago and for a year ago.

oux City reported increased receipts with generally steady quotations. Ft. Dodge felt the effects of picketing in reduced receipts as did Omaha, Neb., while in most eastern Iowa centers buyers reported normal or better supplies. Council Bluffs grocers turned to storage supplies for eggs and the potato stock in wholesale bins was said to be exhausted.

Cedar Rapids milk producers and distributors remained in a deadlock today over a proposal to raise prices and picketing of the city seemed imminent. At a meeting at Burlington last night farmers of Des Moines, Lee and Henry counties agreed to begin picketing highways Wednesday and others in Louisa, Henry and Washington counties were expected to join them.

Menjou Acquitted Of Murder Charge

May Face Trial for Alleged Manslaughter in Fatal Auto Accident

Los Angeles—(P)—Acquitted of a murder and drunken driving charge, Harold Menjou will face trial Sept. 29 on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of his sweetheart, Marjorie Gauthier, in an automobile accident.

Late yesterday a superior court jury reported its verdict as "not guilty" on both counts of the information. The court charged the driver while intoxicated and the other charged one of three offenses—murder in the first degree, murder in the second degree and manslaughter. Jurors explained they were undecided on the manslaughter charge but found the youth, who is the adopted son of Adolphe Menjou, actor, innocent of driving while intoxicated and the first and second degree murder charges.

The court ordered the verdict held up and set trial on the manslaughter charge. Defense counsel indicated they would seek dismissal on the ground Menjou was acquitted.

Appleton Man At Tax Conference

Four Appleton men attended a tax economies meeting held in Milwaukee yesterday. They were George R. Wetzel, president of the chamber of commerce, Mayor John Goodland, Jr., Charles Emdor and Kenneth H. Corbett, secretary of the chamber. The meeting was called by the state chamber of commerce.

Five methods of cutting taxes were outlined. They are:

- 1. Elimination of unnecessary governmental functions.
- 2. Elimination of unnecessary employment, especially by leaving vacancies unfilled.
- 3. Reduction of wages and salaries.
- 4. Reduction in cost of operation and in public improvements.
- 5. Refraining from undertaking any public improvements not absolutely necessary.

There also were general reports on chamber activities and a report on the recent state picnic of the Jaces.

Appleton lost the athletic trophy four points, but retained the hitball title. Five cities were represented at the picnic. It also was announced that the state chamber auto tour will be held soon through the southeastern part of the state.

Use Exposed Films to Watch Eclipse Tomorrow

If it doesn't rain, and if the smoked glass and exposed films work properly, Appleton residents will be able to see the eclipse of the sun from 1:01 Wednesday afternoon until 2:30. The maximum contact, when the totality will be 81 per cent in this locality, will be at 2:15, according to the American Ephemeris, the astronomers' Bible.

From 1 o'clock until 2:30 Appleton will be thrown into varying degrees of twilight, and at 2:15 the sun, four-fifths eclipsed, will look like a first quarter moon, according to Prof. John S. Mills, associate professor of physics at Lawrence college.

Mr. Mills advises the use of darkened photographic plates or a dark photographic film which has been exposed. While smoked glass, the ever-popular method of observing eclipses, gives the same effect, the use of a dark film eliminates the smudging of hands with smoke from the glass, he explained. He also pointed out that much more can be seen with the naked eye, protected by a darkened film, than through a telescope.

Begins at Sunrise

The 1932 eclipse will begin at sunrise on the Arctic Ocean. It will sweep northward to within a few hundred miles of the North Pole, then swing southeast across northern Canada, Hudson Bay, province of Quebec, enter the United States over northwestern Vermont, New Hampshire and southeastern Massachusetts. Then it will pass over the Atlantic and end in midocean at sunset.

The largest city in the path of totality—that narrow belt where the sky is completely blackened—is Montreal. Just outside, the edge of the path is Boston, where the eclipse will be almost total; in New York, the sun will be 95 per cent obscured. Other cities, depending on their location, will see varying degrees of obscuring of the sun.

The actual period of totality—meaning the moment when the sun is totally obscured at a given place—is just 100 seconds. Therefore, scientists must work fast.

But for nearly an hour before and after the maximum of the eclipse is reached, there is a period resembling twilight. For example, at Portland, Maine—where the eclipse will be total—the eclipse will begin at 2:21 p. m., will reach its maximum at 3:30 p. m. and will end at 4:34 p. m.

Relief Promised From Hot Spell

Cooler Weather Due Here Tomorrow, Weatherman Indicates

Cooler weather will come to Appleton by Wednesday.

That was the best part of the weatherman's forecast for the next 24 hours. The promise that it will be cooler by tomorrow is contained in the forecast that the south and southwest winds of the last two days, which brought all the heat will shift to the northwest and accordingly bring a temperature drop by Wednesday.

The last day really has been warm. The mercury slid up to 90 degrees yesterday and chased many people to cool spots. Last night the thermometer registered 74 for the low mark and at noon today was again flirting with the 90's.

Scattered showers which the weatherman scheduled yesterday and last night failed to arrive, so he has continued the forecast for Tuesday night and Wednesday.

Junior Chamber Talks About Golf Tourney

The proposed city amateur golf tournament of the junior chamber of commerce was discussed at the meeting of the chamber last night at Conway hotel. A dinner preceded the meeting. There also were general reports on chamber activities and a report on the recent state picnic of the Jaces.

Appleton lost the athletic trophy four points, but retained the hitball title. Five cities were represented at the picnic. It also was announced that the state chamber auto tour will be held soon through the southeastern part of the state.

Charge Three Took Car Without Consent

Three Appleton boys, charged with taking a car without the owner's consent, were arraigned in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg yesterday afternoon. Hearing of the case was set for Sept. 2. The boys are: Norman Ponschock, 19, 1413 S. Madison-st.; Frank Raab, 19, 1927 S. Jefferson-st.; and Harvey Doro, 17, 1420 S. Jefferson-st. Ponschock and Doro are being held in the county jail under bonds of $500. Raab furnished bonds.

The three were arrested Saturday night and Sunday by city police following the report of the theft of a car owned by Charles Hagen, 825 N. Drew-st. The car was taken early Saturday evening and Ponschock was arrested with the machine at Lake park, on Highway 10 near Lake Winnebago, by a dance hall inspector on duty there. The other two boys were picked up later by city police.

Today the youth had passed 336 hours without regaining consciousness at St. Vincent hospital at Green Bay, where he was taken after the accident. Attending physicians say his condition is unchanged.

Losses Heavy In Invasion of Rebel Troops

Many Slain—Government Army in Control of Ecuador Capital

Guayaquil, Ecuador—(P)—Government troops controlled Quito, the capital, today for the first time since Saturday, after a bloody battle that dislodged the rebels of Nepalli Bonifaz.

Artillery, infantry, cavalry and airplanes co-operated to drive out the insurgents after the loyal troops had gained a commanding hill on the southern outskirts of the city. But the victory was costly, with fellow countrymen concentrating such a deadly force on each other in hand-to-hand fighting that many were killed and wounded on both sides. After the loyalists had entered the city, the insurgents continued to give battle, firing from every vantage point, and erecting barricades for a slow retreat to the northern outskirts of the city.

The lists of wounded indicated that many civilians had taken up arms with the rebels, who sought to place Bonifaz in the presidential chair by virtue of his election last year. He was ruled ineligible because of alleged alien birth.

DIRECTED BY PRIARS

Guayaquil, Ecuador—(P)—The governor of this province received a telegram today from Alberto Martinez, president of the Ecuadorian senate, that the situation at Quito was chaotic and that conservative forces backing Nepalli Bonifaz were being directed by friars during the attack on federal forces from the church towers.

A real conservative revolution has developed since the mutiny of part of the army garrison on Saturday, the message said. There is still no legal government and it appears that a conservative dictatorship is in control despite earlier reports that the government was in the saddle. Senator Martinez asked for reinforcements and these were sent immediately by train.

Dispatches from Quito said the fighting there was still in progress. Federal troops advancing from the north crossed the city and joined troops from the south. The streets were littered with bodies of dead.

The minister of war telegraphed from Guayaquil asking that all available troops be sent to Quito. Many young men are enrolling here as volunteers and it was expected there would be a general attack on the capital tomorrow.

Appleton Youth Is Still Unconscious After 336 Hours

Two weeks ago today Clarence Wickesberg, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Wickesberg, W. Wisconsin-ave, fell 20 feet from a beam at the new St. Hubert's church, under construction at Rosiere, on the Door-Keweenaw-co lines and fractured his skull. Today the youth had passed 336 hours without regaining consciousness at St. Vincent hospital at Green Bay, where he was taken after the accident. Attending physicians say his condition is unchanged.

Losses Heavy In Invasion of Rebel Troops

Many Slain—Government Army in Control of Ecuador Capital

Guayaquil, Ecuador—(P)—Government troops controlled Quito, the capital, today for the first time since Saturday, after a bloody battle that dislodged the rebels of Nepalli Bonifaz.

Artillery, infantry, cavalry and airplanes co-operated to drive out the insurgents after the loyal troops had gained a commanding hill on the southern outskirts of the city. But the victory was costly, with fellow countrymen concentrating such a deadly force on each other in hand-to-hand fighting that many were killed and wounded on both sides. After the loyalists had entered the city, the insurgents continued to give battle, firing from every vantage point, and erecting barricades for a slow retreat to the northern outskirts of the city.

The lists of wounded indicated that many civilians had taken up arms with the rebels, who sought to place Bonifaz in the presidential chair by virtue of his election last year. He was ruled ineligible because of alleged alien birth.

DIRECTED BY PRIARS

Guayaquil, Ecuador—(P)—The governor of this province received a telegram today from Alberto Martinez, president of the Ecuadorian senate, that the situation at Quito was chaotic and that conservative forces backing Nepalli Bonifaz were being directed by friars during the attack on federal forces from the church towers.

A real conservative revolution has developed since the mutiny of part of the army garrison on Saturday, the message said. There is still no legal government and it appears that a conservative dictatorship is in control despite earlier reports that the government was in the saddle. Senator Martinez asked for reinforcements and these were sent immediately by train.

Dispatches from Quito said the fighting there was still in progress. Federal troops advancing from the north crossed the city and joined troops from the south. The streets were littered with bodies of dead.

The minister of war telegraphed from Guayaquil asking that all available troops be sent to Quito. Many young men are enrolling here as volunteers and it was expected there would be a general attack on the capital tomorrow.

A son was born today at St. Elizabeth hospital to Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Clark, 841 W. Lawrence-st.

Loans to City Before Thursday Will Draw 6 Months' Interest

All loans made to the city before Thursday will draw a full six months' interest. Joseph A. Kox city treasurer, announced today. While the city will continue to accept loans after Sept. 1, only those received before this date will draw a half year's interest.

So far the city's short time notes have been taken up by citizens to the extent of over $25,000. About 75 Appleton taxpayers have taken advantage of this plan of drawing interest on their taxes paid in advance in this manner. These notes bear 3 per cent interest and may be redeemed in the payment of taxes, or collected in cash any time between Jan. 1 and March 1, 1933.

Await Action Of Legion on Bonus Issue

Official Washington Expects Convention to Favor Payment

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Notwithstanding the agitation for a decrease in government expenditures, official Washington is preparing to hear that the American legion in its national convention at Portland next month will go on record as in favor of an outlay of $2,400,000,000 through the immediate cash payment of interest and principal ordinarily due in 1945 on bonus certificates.

Legion conventions in 29 states controlled 857 delegates, a total of 1,415 votes are reported to have gone on record already so the national convention of the legion will be merely ratifying what the state conventions have demanded.

Fifteen states have reversed their action of a year ago when the Detroit convention listened to a plea from President Hoover and did not go on record as favoring the bonus.

Reports from ex-service men are to the effect that the shift in sentiment is due in large part to the rejection of the bonus army from Washington.

The difference between the Republican and Democratic nominees on the question however is yet to be determined if indeed any exists. The Democratic platform commits Mr. Hoover to a 25 per cent cut in government expenditures.

Cut Budget
B. M. Baruch of New York who drafted this plank and secured its insertion in the platform has just written a magazine article declaring that $1,000,000,000 can be lopped off the federal budget which is usually around four billions a year. He gives a cut of $400,000,000 in expenditures for the veterans bureau as making up almost half of the billion he believes can be saved. This is taken to mean that Governor Roosevelt if elected would be pledged to such a cut. Mr. Baruch defends the proposal on the ground that it can be encompassed in a few words, namely that "no part of the appropriations should be paid to any person except for or on account of an actual war-connected loss or disability."

The inference is that the remaining five hundred million now being spent by the veterans bureau is not for war-connected loss or disability. This is also the contention of the groups led by Archibald Roosevelt, son of the late President Roosevelt, and the leaders of the newly organized National Economy league.

The immediate payment of the bonus is popular with the legion rank and file because of the argument that "the government owes the money and has agreed to pay it" and that the veterans need it now. Government officials answer that the payment which was agreed to was one which would become due in 1945 and that what the men are asking for is interest paid up to 1945 when as a matter of fact the government could not possibly obtain the funds under the original agreement unless the principal were invested and the interest collected as of 1945.

Borrow for Interest
It is to anticipate the payment of the interest that members of congress have proposed borrowing the money and paying the bonus.

The objection made in congress is that a borrowing of $2,400,000,000 would unsettle the bond market and cause a drop in the value of government bonds and affect the secondary reserves of many banks whose solvency would be threatened once more. The service men argue that the government stretched its credit by more than three billions in authorizing the creation of the Reconstruction Finance corporation and no untoward results followed. Again government officials answer that the money obtained from the R. F. C. is a loan that will be paid back with interest whereas a payment of $2,400,000,000 would add to the public debt and could only be repaid out of increased taxation.

Before the end of the present campaign it will be interesting to see whether both presidential nominees come out against cash payment of the bonus or whether both avoid the issue as too dangerous politically or as something that can be more expediently handled after the election.

R. F. C. Seeking More Data From Loan Applicants

Caution to Watchword—Action Promised on Definite Projects

(Post-Crescent Washington Bureau)

Washington—With caution as the watchword, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation Monday, through publication of information to guide applicants for self-liquidating project loans, moves to eradicate the "indefiniteness" of previous applications which has to date prevented the authorization of any loans from the one and a half billion dollar fund made available for such loans on July 21.

Vitality important to Wisconsin and to every state in the Union faced with unemployment is the regulation and allocation of this huge fund designed to create employment and stimulate business recovery by providing ways and means for financing public works construction program without increasing the burden of federal, state or local taxation.

In the instructions issued today, the Corporation tells all prospective applicants that it cannot receive mere nebulous suggestions, possibilities and wishes, but that it will receive and act on definite, well-planned and concrete projects. For each project presented, it wants to know the location, the plans, the estimated cost of construction, cost of the land, nature and sources of the self-liquidating revenue which is to reimburse Uncle Sam for his emergency loan, the probable date of beginning construction, the date of completing construction, the estimated average number of men to be given employment.

Wants Specifications
It wants to see plans, specifications, blue-prints, maps, engineers' reports. It must be told of mortgages and other encumbrances on the property and the complete plans for financing. It wants to know if efforts have been made to secure funds from other sources, and if so, where, and why they failed, and many other details, down to the most minute point.

To date most of the projects have been vaguely presented to the advisory committee of engineers as "an electric plant for a city in Oregon", "a toll bridge that the city of New Orleans would like across the Mississippi", or "a new dormitory for girls needed on the University of Nebraska campus". Plans and details have been lacking, the Corporation says.

The definition of self-liquidating projects under the R. F. C. act is . . . a project shall be deemed to be self-liquidating, if such project will be made self-supporting and financially solvent, and if the construction cost thereof will be returned within a reasonable period by means of tolls, fees, rents, or other charges, or by such other means (other than by taxation) as may be prescribed by the statutes which provide for the project."

The Corporation may make such loans to, or contracts with states, municipalities, and political subdivisions of states; public agencies of states, of municipalities, and of political subdivisions of states; public corporations, boards and commissions, and public municipal instrumentalities of one or more states. Loans may be made under this provision for the housing of families of low incomes or for the reconstruction of slum areas.

Loans may be made to private corporations to aid in carrying out the construction, replacement or improvement of bridges, tunnels, viaducts, waterworks, canals, and markets devoted to public use.

Loans may be made to private limited dividend corporations to aid in financing projects for the protection and development of forests and other renewable natural resources, if self-liquidating in character, and if the project is regulated by a state or its political subdivision.

Loans may be made to aid in financing the construction of any publicly owned railroad or highway bridge, the construction cost of which will be returned in part by means of tolls, fees, rents or other charges, and the remainder by means of taxes imposed under state law enacted before July 21, the date the emergency relief bill was enacted. Bonds of any state, municipality or other public body issues to finance any such bridge may be purchased by the corporation irrespective of the date of maturity of the bonds, if such procedure is considered necessary.

In almost every other classification, the loans may be made for a period not exceeding 10 years.

In an effort to create and spread employment on these self-liquidating projects, the act provides that, "except in executive, administrative, and supervisory positions, so far as practicable no individual directly employed on any project shall be permitted to work more than thirty hours in any one week."

It also prescribes preference for qualified ex-service with dependents, and bars the "direct employment" of any convict labor.

AMBITION FEEDS ON BLOOD

The rulers of Wisconsin are trying hard to wash the blood from their hands.

"Out, damned spot!" they scream with Lady Macbeth, but the gory stains are indelible.

Attorney-General Reynolds has added his voice to the mighty chorus, the multitude of Progressive speakers, trying to belittle, to smooth over, to draw the public attention away from the carnival of crime that has held undisputed sway in Wisconsin for the last two years while the government at Madison didn't do one single, solitary thing to stay it.

In the face of the fact that crimes of violence are increasing in this state by leaps and bounds, the executive department has shut its jaws, closed its eyes, stuffed its ears and benumbed its senses to what is going on all about it.

This negative policy necessarily acts as an invitation to every vicious character to ply this wretched trade because he has learned that he may do so in comparative safety.

When a bank is robbed of $70,000 at Beloit Mr. Reynolds points to the fact that it had burglary insurance. But when the insurance companies, due to the excessive demands upon them, multiply their premiums by 4 the learned attorney-general says nothing. And when the banks in order to pay the additional overhead increase their interest rates, as they do, or reduce the amount of interest they pay on deposits, as they do, or make service charges against their customers, as they do, the attorney-general is too preoccupied to make any explanation.

With an administration that has talked about human values in preference to property values we find it, in practice, turning its head away as murder blotches every community in the state.

First occasional gangs made raids in Wisconsin. Emboldened by their success these marauders pursued periodic guerrilla warfare against our institutions. Weak and vicious local characters, quick to see the criminal successes of others, have started out and plied hatchet and knife, gun and garrote, and have robbed, raped and murdered, and gone unscathed.

The record of the administration is not black. It is scarlet. Well may it say, "I am in blood steeped in so far, that, should I wade no more, returning were as tedious as to go o'er."

And what of the future?

Wisconsin is as modern in detecting and fighting crime as the people of India who still plow their lands with a crooked stick. Although it has witnessed crime become successful in large measure because of the speed of its get-away, it still persists in following an automobile with an ox-cart.

If it could read modern works on criminology or even the facts that have been presented in court trials in states where murder is still a serious offense, it would learn that scientific assistance, too expensive for each county to provide, but at a trivial cost to the state as a whole, has proven the guilt and therefore convicted such a number of criminals as to thoroughly shatter the nerves of these jackals of the underworld, who when free, and if carrying any intelligence at all, must seek out backward states for their nefarious business.

Mr. Reynolds, like the rest of the state administration, offers no remedy, no solution other than clapping your hands behind your back, walking with eyes upon the ground and praying for the best.

In order not to have total zero as a record in this regard the Progressives ought to bring forth a charm, a bewitched potion or philter, something, anything, to sprinkle on the ground and keep the human fiends away. We may commend to them other charmed methods of getting results where nothing tangible was at hand. Here is one that was stirred up in a mighty caldron centuries ago:

"Fillet of fennysnake,
In the caldron boil and bake;
Eye of newt, and toe of frog,
Wool of bat, and tongue of dog,
Adder's fork and blind-worm's sting,
Lizard's leg, and owl's wing,
For a charm of powerful trouble,
Like a hell-broth, boil and bubble."

It is either something like that or just nothing at all with the present rulers of Wisconsin.

DEMAND FOR DRAFT HORSES

One of the most significant signs of the times is the returning popularity of the draft horse on farms. Only four or five years ago the horse apparently was headed for oblivion as the tractor and the truck usurped his place as the burden carrier, but the tendency the last year or two is back to Old Dobbin.

This tendency was particularly well illustrated by the exhibits of horses at the Seymour and DePere fairs. In both places more horses were shown than for several years and they attracted quite as much interest as the exhibits of pure bred cattle and swine and sheep. Just a few days ago County Agent Sell said he expects soon to organize colt clubs among the young folks on Outagamie county farms as a means of stimulating interest in good horse breeding.

A generation or so ago one of the common experiences of every rural community was the periodical visits of horse jockeys with their herds of horses brought here from the west. With the coming of the automobile truck and the tractor they no longer came here, but it is significant that in the last few weeks horse dealers again are active in this community.

With crops frequently selling at less than cost of production, farmers too are finding it advantageous to convert the produce of their land into the bone and muscle of horses to meet the brisker demand that exists for them. The business of breeding colts and selling horses promises again to be one of the profit-makers for the farmer.

It may be that the horse will blaze the way to that prosperity which many believe is in sight. The inquiry for breeding stock in Wisconsin and neighboring states may be considered as an omen of the better days that are coming.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR PRESIDENT

In refusing to become a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, Mr. Owen D. Young modestly belittled his own qualifications. "I just haven't the right kind of training to hold down that job in the White House," he said.

It would be interesting to know Mr. Young's thoughts on the qualifications necessary for that high office. Most of our Presidents have been men of broad experience. Some have been specialists in government, in the professions or in business, but with few exceptions, all have been men of vision and sound judgment.

Perhaps the man best fitted by training and experience for his particular time to assume the duties of President was James A. Garfield, but the assassin's hand, within a few short months after his inauguration, brought to an end what had every prospect of becoming a notable administration.

Looking backward one might conclude that the qualifications necessary for the Presidency run the gamut of human attributes. So often has it happened in the history of the nation that well-planned governmental programs, requiring no extraordinary talent for their accomplishment, have been disrupted by sudden crises that demanded the highest in human qualifications to meet them successfully.

President Lincoln found himself suddenly faced by one of the greatest conflicts in history and President McKinley, within a year after his election, had on his hands a war with Spain, which was no part of his election program. Similarly, Wilson when the whole world seemed to collapse about him and this unexpected situation found human qualities in a college professor that will leave their imprint upon the nation's history.

Everything was running smoothly and according to plan for President Hoover during the first six months of his incumbency. Prosperity was scheduled to be bigger and better and poverty was soon to be abolished. But expectations were suddenly disrupted and there came the need of almost superhuman qualifications in sound judgment, courage and experience to meet the crisis which followed.

No one is competent to sit in judgment of Mr. Young's opinion of himself. His self-appraisal, deprecating his own qualifications and training, might readily be accepted, in view of his record, as a warranty that, were he President, the office would be ably administered.

Emergencies such as now exist in our national life demand the highest type of leadership — an ideal so often thwarted by the machinations of politics. However, the highest of human attributes sometimes lie dormant in unexpected places, only to be brought forth by great emergency and trial.

SURPLUS OF COFFEE
El Consejo Nacional del Cafe ("National Coffee Council") of Rio de Janeiro announces that in the week ending June 18 there were destroyed in Brazil 292,564 sacks of the inferior grades of coffee. This makes a total to date, from the first of January, 1932, of 7,115,318 sacks of coffee either destroyed by fire or thrown into the sea. Assuming the average weight of each sack to be 60 kilos, the quantity of coffee thus removed from consideration in the world markets during the past half-year is 461,930,780 kilograms, or 455,643 British tons. — El Comercio (Lima, Peru.)

Just Folks
By Edgar A. Guest

THE CHANGE
A little less cream on the oatmeal each morning.
A little less fashion our bodies adorning.
A little less leisure, a little less madness.
A little less wild life we fancied was gladness.
A little less boasting, a little less fretting.
And it may be that back to our senses we're getting.

A little more thinking, a little less chatter.
Less money to do with, but what does it matter?
A little less roaming, a little less gaining.
A little more thought to our young people's training.
A little less freedom, a little less shirking.
A little less seeking rewards without working.

Conditions have altered! There's none who can doubt it.
There's something we've lost, but we'll get on without it.
A little less shamming and golden calf-slavery.
A little more wisdom, a little more bravery.
A little more thought for receipts and expenses.
And perhaps we are all getting back to our senses.

Personal Health Talks
BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

IS EYE EXERCISE BENEFICIAL TO THE EYESIGHT OR THE APPEARANCE

Several readers have told me, all of them firmly, some of them gently, that my opinion, recently given here in reference to eye exercise, is wrong. I referred to eye exercise as "eye water" and asserted that the best exercise for the eyes is looking off at distant scenery, particularly forest, field, hill and valley, natural scenery. It is an excellent habit for all who do much close work with the eyes to look up and away from the work for a few moments at regular intervals. I said look up, and throw the head back to do so.

An optometrist who calls himself "doctor" but does not reveal by what right he uses the title, writing to say he had believed that regarding things at a distance is rest for the eyes, and he would thank me to inform him what muscles such use of the eyes exercises.

Maybe he would.

Did I say anything about muscles?

Exercise has a broader meaning than many suppose. One may exercise the mind when there is no question of any muscular action. One may exercise or practice relaxation of muscles, for steadiness, calm, poise, etc., as well as contraction of muscles for movement.

An oculist, that is, a real doctor of medicine who is an eye physician, finds that the bowed posture in which many persons work, study or use their eyes is a factor of near-sightedness from actual elongation of the shape of the eyeball from prolonged dependency of the eyes. This is the reason why every one who does close or fine work with the eyes should make it a habit to look up and away from the work for a few moments every five or ten minutes. Given a chance for the hanging or sagging eyeball to flatten out again to something like its normal spherical shape.

This observation lends more weight to the belief of some persons that gentle massaging of the eyes with finger or thumb, through the closed lids, for a few moments two or three times a day, relieves fatigue and strain and helps to maintain good eyesight. They simply rest the thumbs on the temples while they stroke the upper lids in an outward direction a few times with the middle fingers, and the fingers on brow while they stroke the lower lids inward with the thumbs. This is more or less an instinctive rubbing of tired eyes.

Student aged 24 years had considerable trouble with his eyes, frequent changes of glasses for far sightedness and eye strain, he says. Nevertheless his eyes ached and he felt tired out after a three or four hour period of close reading. (Most normal eyes do, for that matter.) More to please the whim of a classmate than in any hope of eye relief he began doing an eye exercise consisting of rolling the eyes slowly around in their sockets, as though following a ball revolving around the extreme outer circumference of the field of vision, with the head held erect and not turned with the eyes. Three times around one way, then three times around the other way, then repeat once or twice, but never enough to tire the muscles. At first he said this caused snapping and crackling of the muscles, or some such sensation. He performed this exercise two or three times in the course of an evening's study. His eyes soon ceased to trouble him.

Take it or leave it, folks. All I know is that it will do no harm.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Nose Clip for Swimmers

In a recent article you mentioned the wearing of a nose clip to protect swimmers from the pain of getting from sinus trouble. I have sinus trouble and suffer every time I enter the water. Where can I procure such a thing? (H. T. A.)

Answer — No, I suggested the nose clip to exclude water from the nose. Make your own clip of spring wire, or have your jeweler or optician make one for you, something on the order of a siothespin. I do not know whether such clips are available ready-made.

The Tynmites
By Hal Cochran

WHEN Duncy and the monkey stopped before the jail, kind Duncy hopped right down and said, "I'll go inside and tell the judge we're here."

"Your fine these cocoanuts will pay. Then we'll be on our merry way. Now, don't you worry. I'll be back! There's not a thing to fear."

The judge proved kind as kind could be. "The monkey now is free," said he. "I'll have the cocoanuts brought in. You've done your very best."

"The cocoanuts will do some good 'cause we will use them as we should and feed them to the other thoughtless monkeys we arrest."

When Duncy walked outside the jail he heard a loud and merry "Hail!" It quite surprised him when he saw the other Tynmites there. Said Scouty, "We know what you've done, and our respect you've more than won. You've saved this little monkey, which we think was more than fair."

The monkey then said, "It's my turn to do a favor. You will learn that I'm appreciative. Come along, now. Follow me!"

"The monkey race track's near at hand and we will see some races grand. They'll also be as funny as you ever hope to see."

And that was right. The race track was an interesting place because the seats where all the monkeys sat were made of limbs of trees.

The monkey said, "The race is set to start. A thrill you're going to get. Now, make yourselves real comfortable and sit down, if you please."

A smile soon spread on Scouty's face. Said he, "Here comes the monkey race." And then a monkey dashed by with another on its back. The Tynmites friend said, "My, what fun! That's how a monkey race is run. The little fellow wins unless he falls off, to the track."

A Bystander In Washington
BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington — John Q. Tilson, one-time republican leader of the house and a member of that body for some 22 years, couldn't resist the opportunity, before he announced his resignation as a representative from Connecticut, to take a shot at the democrats and the way they have tampered with the rules this past session.

To the colonel, those rules are something set apart, something sacred. He is fond of telling his colleagues that he is quite sure if the men who framed them a half-century ago are able to look down from their world today, they must feel pleased — the rules are substantially as they left them.

When the democrats gained control of the house last December they immediately set about to war on what they chose to call "bossism" as practiced in the house by both parties when in control.

Their major step was the institution of the discharge rule — that vehicle, which with the signature of 145 members, compels a vote on a bill regardless of how a committee looks at it.

He Would Abolish Rule

Before, such action required a majority of the house to sign — 218. It was here, contended the democrats, where lay the power of "bossism run mad," exercised by that famed republican triumvirate of "Longworth, Tilson and Snell."

Three times in the last session the democrats invoked their discharge rule, each time Tilson says to no good purpose whatever. Tilson he begs that it be abolished.

Of course the purpose of the discharge rule, as the democrats see it, is to keep themselves from being "hog-tied." The theory is that new members come to congress full of enthusiasm and a conscientious desire to serve their constituents to find when they get here the rules tie them in a knot, helpless.

The Other Side Of It

But there's the other side, as all observers and a number of members themselves know quite well. Not all congressmen are anxious to let the public know their views on every piece of pending legislation. Take it from Snell of New York, at present republican leader of the house and guardian of the rules committee when "bossism ran mad."

"It is difficult for a man constituted as I am to take the pounding I have received on the floor when I knew the member was demagoguing. I know they were demagoguing because time and again such members have come to me and said:

"Don't pay any attention. I did not mean it. I was forced into this for political reasons, but for God's sake you stand up and do what is right."

Norman Thomas is quoted as saying he has a dream of victory in the 1936 campaign. We don't want to be discouraging, but we have dreamed of inheriting a million plenty of times.

SWEEEPING GAINS CONTINUE
On Aug. 30, 1918, allied troops continued their sweeping advance on a front of near 60 miles in northern France.

The French took Mt. St. Simeon and crossed the Canal du Nord at several places.

British forces continued their wide gains except at Bellecourt where the Germans made a determined stand and halted the British effort to turn the flank of the retreating forces in that vicinity. Comblès and Clercy fell during the day, however, and in some sections British infantry advanced so rapidly that their artillery was left far behind.

American and French troops took Chavigny and Cuffies north of Soissons and Americans stormed Juvigny.

3 Democratic Speakers Hit G.O.P. Plans

1,000 Persons Hear Republican Policies Assailed by Candidates

Approximately 1,000 persons, at a Democratic mass meeting at Pierce park last night, heard Republican policies and principles assailed by three Democratic candidates for state and national offices. The speakers were F. Ryan Duffy, Fond du Lac, candidate for the United States senate; Leo P. Fox, Chilton, candidate for governor; and James Hughes, DePere, candidate for congress from the eighth district.

"When times are hard and people are dissatisfied, in many foreign nations there is nothing for them to do but start a revolution," said Mr. Duffy. "But in this country it is different. We have two major political parties and when the people become dissatisfied with the conduct of the party in power, the majority of the voters can change the administration. I predict that this will happen this fall, both in state and national elections."

perity four years ago if they could stay in power. Vice President Curtis said four years ago that the main issue in the campaign was prosperity. The bugaboo, held over the heads of the men affiliated with the Republican party, that they would lose their jobs if they did not vote the Republican ticket, has exploded. There will be a big protest against the methods used by the G. O. P. party to remain in power and this will be manifested at the polls when the country goes Democratic."

Platform Evasive
Mr. Duffy pointed out that both parties promised relief in their platforms, but that the Democratic plank is clear, concise, simple and easily understandable, whereas the Republican platform is a long document of high sounding words and beautiful phrases which is evasive and straddling. The Democrats, he said, are pledged to reduce the operating costs of government by $1,000,000,000.

"People can't look with any hope to the Republican party to relieve them of the yoke of this burden because of the bureaucracy system of boards and commissions which has been built largely in the Republican administration for the friends and allies of the party who have been faithful and must be rewarded for their services," the speaker declared.

The Democratic candidate for the senate slashed the G. O. P. policy of "too much government." He declared that the Democrats are opposed to the concentration of power and that they believe that the "least government is the best government." He said the present administration is becoming nervous. He said this was manifested when someone in the White House ordered out the troops to use guns and poison gas against the bonus army. He said that the propaganda now goes out that most of the bonus army members were not soldiers.

"If they weren't then it is peculiar that those that died and were wounded when fired on by the government troops, all were men with service records," Mr. Duffy stated.

Scores Tariff

Duffy hit the Republican tariff policies, which he said had built up a barrier which has halted trade relations between this country and the other nations of the world. He also criticized the federal farm board for spending a half billion dollars only to fail miserably in its attempt to "do something" for the farmer. He also slashed the "whispering" campaign against Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic nominee for president. He pointed out that Roosevelt is fully capable of holding the highest office in the land and that he demonstrated this fact during his four years as governor of New York.

The entire history of Governor Roosevelt's public life shows he has always had the interest of the average man and woman at heart. Duffy pointed out that Roosevelt has captured the imagination of men and women in all walks of life in all parts of the country.

sound prosperity, we require a leader in whom all classes of people have confidence. Unfortunately the present leadership in the Republican party has lost the confidence of millions of people. This "English-trained" Hoover was out of the country so long he cannot see the problems of the people as Roosevelt sees them."

Mr. Duffy urged the selection of Democratic congressmen to aid Roosevelt in carrying out his program. He also pleaded with Democrats to vote their own primary ticket at the election on Sept. 20 and not to become involved in the fight between the two Republican factions.

Sees G. O. P. Failure

The inequities of Republican administrations since the selection of Harding, the steamroller tactics of the "big guns" of the party in selecting candidates they can control, the party's continual catering to wealth and power, and the failure of G. O. P. policies were recounted by Mr. Hughes.

He scored the scandals during the Harding regime. He declared these scandals alone should convince the people the Republicans are not fit to remain in power. He scored the "Cautious Cal-Mellon" alliance during the Coolidge administration. He said Mellon manufactured everything from aluminum to whisky.

"The bonus was refused to the boys who deserved it," declared Mr. Hughes, "but with the same pen which wrote the bonus denial, Coolidge signed a measure providing for tax refunds of $90,000,000 to huge corporations and individuals. But you had to be a millionaire to qualify for this refund. And Mellon's own company received a refund of $9,000,000."

"Cal and Mellon turned down the farmers but within two days Coolidge signed a measure providing for a $2 additional tariff on pig iron and this boosted the price of practically every commodity the farmer had to buy. The farmer was deflated 30 billion dollars while the government was giving shipping interests a gift of $250,000,000."

Mr. Hughes read an excerpt from Hoover's acceptance speech four years ago which pointed out that this country was fast approaching the time when the poorhouses and poverty would vanish entirely. He said this point was not quite reached but that if the G. O. P. was returned to power it was assured.

"Today there are from 10 to 12 million people out of work," Hughes declared. "Two million farmers have abandoned their lands. Farms and homes are being sold by the auctioneer. There are 100,000 commercial failures a month. Ten thousand bank have failed and $11,000,000,000 have been lost to men and women who have saved all their lives to get a small stake together. Where is this great prophet Hoover now? Where is ballyhoo Hoover now?"

Coolidge blew the whistle, Harding rang the bell, Hoover pulled the throttle, And the country went to hell."

Mr. Hughes also hit the straddling and "pussyfooting" of the president and the Republican party on prohibition. He pointed out that four years ago Hoover thought prohibition was a "noble experiment," but today he admitted its failure, while at the same time he had his running mate, Curtis, shouting his dryness from the housetops.

Plank Evasive

The Republican plank on prohibition is as evasive as the rest of the party's platform, Hughes said. On one end... is dry enough to please Bishop Cannon and on the other end it is wet enough to please Capone and his ilk. If prohibition reform is wanted the people must look to the Democratic party for it, Hughes pointed out. The Democratic platform is clear and concise and the Democrats are put in power the people know what to expect.

"If you believe that of what each of the two factions of the Republican party say about the other," declared Mr. Fox, "then you cannot again put either G. O. P. faction in charge of the state government. Since the Republicans have taken hold of the state administration and held it for 37 years, there has been an ever-increasing tax burden on the people. Taxes rose from 37 million to 262 millions of dollars last year. This was due largely to the increasing numbers of bureaus, commissions, committees and boards which have sprung up."

"Taxes are so high that confiscation of property through taxation is resulting. Already the state has taken over 11,000,000 acres, or one-third of all in the land in the state because the owners could not pay the excessive taxes. Don't look to either Republican faction for relief, because both have demonstrated they do not keep their promises to lower taxes. Select a Democratic governor and give him a Democratic assembly and senate and the state's operating costs will be cut 50 per cent at once."

$87 Per Capita

State taxes alone today amount to $87 per capita, Mr. Fox claimed, and this does not include indirect taxes. He named boards and commissions which he thought could be eliminated or whose personnel could be reduced materially. He scored Governor LaFollette for the appointment of an executive commission to aid him in his work and pointed out that if a Democrat was named governor he would assume the duties and responsibilities of office without the aid of a commission to run up more expenses and boost the taxes still further. He urged issuance of auto licenses through the county clerk's office instead of under the present system.

Stephen D. Balliet, chairman of the Outagamie County Democratic committee, introduced the speakers. He urged a "clean sweep" removing old Republican candidates from president to coroner.

New York—Where do you suppose Harry Rosenthal, sophisticated orchestra leader, and Marjorie Lee Voe, Ziegfeld beauty, are going to spend their honeymoon? Where but at Niagara Falls? "This is an old fashioned wedding that is going to stay put," he said after the ceremony yesterday, "and Niagara Falls is as good a place as I know for an old-fashioned honeymoon."

A BOOK A DAY

BY BRUCE CATTON

A New York Tempest It seems that the world is getting better. New York a century ago was a more wicked town than it is now. Its dives were more numerous and more unclean; the general public had more hypocrisy and confusion in its attitude toward them than it has now.

This, anyhow, is what I gather from reading "A New York Tempest," by Manuel Komroff.

This is a bulky story about a New York murder trial in the 1830's.

A young man from the upper middle class gets entangled with a girl of the streets, and winds up by strangling her to death. Arrested and brought to trial, he finds himself the center of a city-wide sensation. The "better element" of the town is all on his side; the rough-necks, the Five Points drifters and the Bowery toughs are all hot for a conviction. Everybody in town takes sides, and the whole business almost ends in a bloody riot.

Evidently New York took its murder trials seriously in those days.

Anyway, the young man gets acquitted, by dint of a bit of perjury on the part of his star witness. But it does him little good. He slides on downhill and, at last, kills himself to escape from his conscience. And I wouldn't be surprised if there were a fine moral lesson, or something, in it.

The story is chiefly interesting for its picture of old-time New York. Mr. Komroff seems to have lost the touch that put "Coroner" over; this book seems over-long and sententious and often it is rather boring.

The Boat's In—

—and down the gang-plank come Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Smith. She's Claire Luce to you. The stage favorite and her husband were back in New York after a jaunt to Europe.

READY FOR ECLIPSE London—Scientists all over the world are preparing to study the sun's eclipse which will shadow the eastern part of the United States August 31. Prof. Sydney Chapman of Imperial College, London, says that the studies of the eclipse should concentrate on the effects on the electricity of the upper air—rather than on the sun and its light. It is thought such studies may reveal practical theories which may aid in obtaining power from the air.

Report Upheaval In Wedded Life of Rudy Vallee, Wife

Can't Get Along Together, Attorney Says—Fay With Parents

New York — (P) — A sour note sounded today in the matrimonial music of the Rudy Vallees.

"Yes, there is a rift. They just can't seem to get along together," said a statement by Hymen Bushel, attorney who said he represented both the orchestra singer-leader and Mrs. Vallee.

The lawyer said Mrs. Vallee, the former Fay Webb whose father is police chief at Santa Monica, Calif., would leave New York at the end of the week. Reports that her destination would be Reno were without confirmation. Bushel said the domestic difficulties had not reached the point of divorce. He added: "While neither has started divorce proceedings as yet I cannot answer for Mrs. Vallee's plans. If I can't patch things up—and I am not sanguine of my ability to do it—divorce will follow. I cannot discuss what the grounds for divorce may be."

"They just haven't been hitting it off well. He is away much of the time. He is on tour now. He will return Thursday. And I expect to make a further announcement the following day."

"There is no other woman and no other man in the case," Mrs. Vallee is at the Vallee apartment with her father and mother.

"Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps me wonderfully. I took it for nerves and it quieted and strengthened me. I have good natural color now and a better appetite."—Mrs. Lulu Caonins, 2939 181st Place, Toledo, Ohio.

"I am forty-seven years old. I have been suffering from terrible headaches and nervousness. All the time I felt weak and tired. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound surely is helping me. radio high place, met Miss Webb in 1930 when she was making a talking picture. They were married July 6, the following year, in West Orange, N. J.

At the time of the marriage Vallee was quoted as saying:

"Fay is the one woman who can make me happy and whom I can make happy."

Seven months ago when reports of an imminent estrangement were circulated, Vallee said:

"My love for my wife has grown stronger every day until she has come to mean more to me than my life. I say this unashamedly."

Vallee, one time soda clerk in a Maine village, later a saxophone player in various orchestras and finally the head of his own band and widely known for his songs through the megaphone and microphone, is especially well known for ballad and love song numbers. "A Little Kiss Each Morning" and "This Is the Missus" are two numbers especially associated with his public appearances since his marriage.

If you intend to re-roof here's a friendly word of warning!

NEIGHBORING towns are full of canvassers seeking the opportunity to re-roof homes at a fixed contract price. Some offer unknown roofing materials backed up with meaningless long term guarantees. Others make alluring inducements through an easy payment plan which upon analysis carries exceedingly high interest charges.

The actual price you pay per 100 square feet of roof area is hidden. These canvassers know you are unaware of the area in the roof and the cost of honest labor for applying it. And hence this Warning!

Before you sign one of these contracts for re-roofing, investigate what a home business man offers. See samples of Genuine Rubberoid Shingles—the oldest and most respected roof covering of its type on the market.

Bank Softballers Swamp Hardwoods By 21 to 9 Count

Series for Senior Loop Championship Now Evened Up

also a school teacher, failed to keep house as he thought she should and spent too much of her time in women's club work and other activities outside the home.

An inferiority complex was blamed by the sheriff for the slaying. "He told me," Sheriff Turner said, "that he didn't find small town life congenial, while his wife always took an active part in social affairs. We've discovered, too, that Mrs. Moor interceded for him once and prevented him from losing his position as a public school teacher at Robinson. This probably irritated him and made him feel inferior to her."

Mrs. Moor was killed in an automobile belonging to her husband as they were returning to their home at night from Indiana. Moor appeared at a farm house and related a tale of having been held up and slugged by hijackers who shot his wife. He was kept in jail while the story was investigated and confessed Sunday after, he said, he found he could no longer stand seeing visions of his wife's face both while awake and asleep.

The Faithful Cheat BY RUBY M. AYRES

SYNOPSIS: Too late, Sondra Kent realizes she loves John Anderson. She has secretly married Mark Merriman, who now is returning home, ill, from the Congo. When Anderson proposes to her, she tells him of her marriage. He tells her she must be loyal to Mark, who needs her now.

Chapter 30
WAITING

At last! I had not just utterly bed and fickle? Sondra wondered hopelessly. "Only a little while ago I felt like this when Mark went away... no—not like this—it wasn't anything like this. I was sorry... sad... but it didn't feel like the end of the world—as this does."

And Anderson believed that when she saw Mark again all would be well.

It made her want to laugh, and it made her long to weep.

She could hear him talking to Ellen, and presently he came back and stood beside her.

"Good-bye, Sondra—"

She raised her eyes to his face. "Good-bye—"

Her hands were resting on the table behind her and she did not offer to move them.

A little quiver of emotion crossed his face.

"I want you to be happy—that's all that matters," he said.

"Thank you," she laughed—it seemed so strange that he should wish her happiness when he was taking it from her.

"Won't you shake hands with me, Sondra?"

She drew a hard breath. "No!" she said.

He squared his shoulders as if to rid them of some heavy burden.

"Good-bye then—if ever I can do anything for you—"

"There is only one thing you can do," she broke in harshly.

"What is that?" he asked.

Her unhappy eyes met his with a defiant challenge.

"Love me," she said.

"I shall always do that," he answered.

Her lips quivered with bitter jealousy.

"You say that, and you'll still go about with... with the Symons girl, and let people think you are going to marry her."

"What people think does not trouble me. But I am not stealing another man's wife."

"Oh you saint, you saint!" she mocked him, then suddenly the tears were running down her face. "I suppose even you have made mistakes in your life?" she sobbed.

"My dear, I've made more than I can remember, but I've had to stand by them."

"I'm not made that way. I hate having to suffer. I can't see any sense in it... life's so short."

He drew a quick harsh breath—

"Sondra, if only you'd told me this sooner... if only you'd been honest with me."

"I'm honest now, but it's no use."

He passed a hand across his eyes.

"Good-bye, Sondra—"

Waited a moment, but she made no reply, and so he left her.

How it rained! Sondra stood on the pier staring out over the water.

A little distance away John Anderson and Mark's mother stood talking together. Sondra had wandered restlessly away from them finding it almost impossible to listen any more to Mrs. Merriman's eternal questioning.

"What time is it now?... Do you think the boat will be late?"

She was a small, spare woman, as much unlike Mark as it is possible for mother and son to be.

She knew all about Sondra's marriage—everybody knew—to Sondra it had been like writing "The End" on the last page of a story of which she had only just discovered what the ending was to be.

She had not seen Anderson since the evening he left her at the cottage till this morning when he had motored her up with Mark's mother to meet the boat.

Anderson seemed a queer sort of journey—the three of them united by such strange ties—divided by emotions even more strange.

Sondra knew that Mrs. Merriman disliked her and disapproved of her; but it did not seem to matter—nothing mattered.

Even the fact of Anderson's presence had hardly hurt her—she seemed somehow so far removed.

He was kind, attentive—courteous, but there was something gone from his manner; she had felt all the time as if he were stretching out an arm to keep her away from him.

Presently he came across to her.

"The boat won't be in for an hour yet, Sondra. We'll go and get something to eat. You must be hungry."

They had left the shore almost at daybreak; Mrs. Merriman who had stayed over night with Sondra had insisted on everyone's being ready at an entirely unnecessary hour.

"I'm not hungry," Sondra said in answer to Anderson's suggestion. "But we will go if you like."

Sondra drank some coffee but she could not eat.

She sat almost silent, listening to Mrs. Merriman's ceaseless questioning.

"Do you think he will be very ill?—oughtn't we to have brought a doctor? How shall we get him home?"

It was a relief when she left them and wandered outside to see if there was any further news of the boat.

"You haven't eaten anything, Sondra," Anderson said.

"I'm not hungry."

She looked at him with indifferent eyes; he was so calm and undisturbed, and yet if he loved her he must surely be suffering—just a little?

She said with sudden irrelevance—

"I wonder what's become of Flora? It seems funny she has never written to me."

"What made you suddenly think of her?"

She shrugged her shoulders—

"Perhaps because I want to do what she did—run away from a man I do not love."

He made no answer, and she asked presently:

"I wonder what you are thinking about?"

He smiled a little. "I dare say my thoughts are very much the same as yours, Sondra—perhaps I am wondering why we make such a muddle of our lives."

Beatrice begins to spread gossip about Sondra, on Monday.

TELL-TALE SPOES

Columbus, O.—Ed Hicks, 6, and Billie Evans, 6, learned that one alarm brings another. Eddie climbed on Billie's shoulder to turn in a fire alarm, just to see the fire engines go. When the engines arrived, the boys escaped. But firemen found a pair of shoes which Eddie had taken off to keep Billie's shirt clean. They traced it to the boys, who, frightened, naturally blamed each other. The reprimands they got from the firemen will keep them from ringing any more alarms.

Comeback of Senators Interests American League Teams

Ends Rumor Johnson Is To Lose Job

Have Won 11 of Last 14 Games; Hayworth Makes First Error

BY GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer
HAYWORTH gotten wind, perhaps, of the rumor that his manager is in active danger of losing his job at the close of the current race, the Washington Senators have started a belated drive that promises to do Walter Johnson a lot of good.

In winning 11 of their last 14 games, the Senators at least have gained a re-hearing for the "Big Train," and if they sustain that clip up to the last day it is doubtful whether Clark Griffith would give further thought to a change of pilots.

Up to the time they began their onslaught on the western clubs, the Senators had made a disappointing race of it. Picked to finish at or near the top, they barely were clinging to the first division a fortnight ago. Those on the inside confidently predicted Bucky Harris would be back next season to manage the club he led to two flags and one world championship. Right now, however, it looks like Harris will remain at Detroit.

Near Second Place
By defeating the St. Louis Browns yesterday, 7 to 6, in 13 innings while Philadelphia was dividing a doubleheader with Detroit, the Senators climbed within five and a half games of second place. If they catch the A's and land the runner-up berth, Johnson will need to make no apologies when contract time rolls around.

Singles by West and Kerr and MacFarlane gave the Senators the winning run in yesterday's long contest, their second 13-inning victory within a week. Walt Stewart went the route for the Browns while three moundmen worked for the winners with Bill McAfee eventually receiving credit for the triumph.

The Yankees stepped a little further ahead of the field by trimming Chicago twice, 10 to 3 and 4 to 3. Lefty Gomez breezed in his twenty-second victory in the first game, but Charley Ruffing had a close scrape before calling up No. 16 in the eighth. Red Kress' homer with one on in the eighth came within a run of tying the count.

The Athletics staged a six-run rally in the eighth round to beat Detroit in the first, 8 to 3, but the Tigers came back to win the second game, 10 to 7, with a three-run outburst in the ninth. Ray Hayworth catcher, made his first error of the season in the second game.

Although they made only five hits off Rhodes and McNaughton, the Cleveland Indians cashed in on 12 passes to defeat the Boston Red Sox, 6 to 3. Earl Averill drew five free trips.

National league turnstiles were idle for the day. Only one game was scheduled, between Boston and Pittsburgh, and that was erased by wet grounds.

Hold Another Meeting
A meeting of the directors of the Northeastern State Football league will be held tonight at Clintonville at which time several cities will be represented and one of the new towns will have its club admitted to the loop. Byron T. Host, Shawano, has been re-elected president and F. W. McIntyre, Clintonville, named secretary.

Teams which were represented at a recent meeting were Green Bay, Shawano, New London, Little Chute, Clintonville and Menominee. There was some talk of a compact four team loop, New London withdrawing from the league when directors voted to continue as six teams.

Horn-Noffkes 4, Green-Hurleys 2.

TUESDAY'S GAMES
Grishaber-DeYoungs vs. Horn-Noffkes (Interlake).
Kirk-Brueggemanns vs. Green-Hurleys (McKinley).

A battle for first place in the Family league will feature play at Interlake park tonight when the Horn-Noffkes battle the Grishaber-DeYoungs. Each has lost one game. The other game tonight scheduled for McKinley grounds will show the Green-Hurleys and Kirk-Brueggemanns deciding who is to rest on the bottom of the loop.

Friday night's game features the makings of a good family feud. The Grishaber-DeYoungs took their first trimming 9 and 7 and they're med. Leading 6 and 5 at the end of the sixth, the umpire made them play the seventh despite darkness. But, so they said, kept them from seeing the ball until they heard it hit the ground. It was so dark the street lights had been turned on.

In the other game Irv Horn pitched the Horn-Noffkes to a 4 and 2 win over the Green-Hurleys. Marv Green allowed six hits and one walk while his mates were unable to solve Horn's slants for more than three safeties.

Catholic Aces Win From Hawks, 5 and 4

Catholic Aces defeated the Lawrence Hawks in a softball game yesterday by a score of 5 and 4. The winners did all their scoring in the third inning when they chased five runs across the plate. The Hawks scored one marker in the first, one in the fourth and then staged a rally in the seventh.

Doc Spears Paired With Sarazen in Exhibition

MADISON—Between football seasons, golf ranks as a major sport with Wisconsin's new gridiron mentor, Dr. Clarence M. Spears.

When the doctor was negotiating with university athletic officials in connection with the job of head football coach one of his paramount inquiries concerned the number of golf courses in Madison.

Since his arrival here Coach Spears has seen action on virtually every course in the city and not a small number in any other parts of the state. Next Saturday he joins the select group of partners to Gene Sarazen. United States and British golf champ.

Francis Gallett Leads Pro Golf Troupe With 145

George K. Vitense, Appleton, Among Leaders With 82-75-157

GREEN LAKE—(P)—Francis Gallett, professional at Blue Mound club, Milwaukee, held a nine stroke lead over his two nearest rivals for the Wisconsin open golf championship as the final 36-hole round got underway today at the Lawsonia Country club. He shot a 70-75-145.

Joe Frank of Brynwood, who turned in a par shattering 70 for yesterday's morning round, and R. W. Tracy of Woodmont were trailing Gallett with scores of 154. Kully Schlicht of Madison was third with 153.

After going around the course in 75 for the morning round, Gallett played the first nine of the afternoon in 32, five under par, and finished up with a 38, two over par for the last nine. He played erratically on the greens on the way home.

Set Course Record
Although Frank established a course record with his 33 for the second nine in the morning round, he had difficulty keeping out of the bunkers in the afternoon and finished both nines with 42's.

Schlicht had a fair start with a 76 on the first eighteen and when he made the first nine of the afternoon in 35, two under par, it appeared he would make a strong bid for the lead. His 44 on the final nine, however, dropped him into third place.

Ted Smith of La Crosse was another entry who failed to keep step with the pace he set in the morning round. His 81 for the afternoon round added to first round score of 76 left him in fifth place at the half way mark.

The performance of Hank Kaiser, who finished third in the tourney last year, was one of the upsets of the day. His total of 167 on rounds 18 and 65 apparently put him out of the running.

Thirty professionals and 15 amateurs remained as championship contenders in today's play. Professionals had to score 168 to qualify and amateurs 176.

Others scored yesterday:
Alvin Krueger, Beloit 75-82-157.
George Vitense, Appleton, 82-75-157.
X-Lyn Lardner, Oconomowoc, 81-78-159.

Harry Gammager, Devil's Lake, 83-79-162.
Lloyd Nelson, Lake Delton, 77-88-163.

X-Jimmy Lohr, Clintonville, 81-82-163.
Joe Nickols, Janesville, 83-80-163.
Art Huebner, Chilton, 85-78-163.

Harold Fossum, Green Lake, 80-84-164.
X-Martin Rammer, Sheboygan, 84-86-170.
X-Bill Lathrop, Janesville, 89-84-173.

Lee Schneider, Chippewa Falls, 90-90-180.
(X-Denotes amateurs.)

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Oral Hildebrand, Indians—Scattered Red Sox' nine hits and won, 6-1.

George Earnshaw, Athletics, and Billy Rhule, Tigers—Former stopped Tigers with five hits in first game; latter collected home run, double and single in nightcap.

Vernon Gomez and Charley Ruffing, Yankees—Pitched Yankees to two victories over White Sox.

Sam West and John Kerr, Senators—Their singles in twelfth led to defeat of Browns.

that netted two more markers but not enough to tie the score.

Kettenhoven and Vandehey worked for the Aces and E. Kloes and D. Brumm for the Hawks.

The Italian star and Dr. Spears will oppose Billy Sixty, Milwaukee, and Jeff Power, Wisconsin American legion golf champion, Milwaukee, on the Monona Country club links.

The girl of Wisconsin's new coach has long been the subject of interest. He has been called the "poly-dog doctor" but the nickname seems to be a misnomer now. His drives off the tee prove that. And hitting the ball is what he enjoys.

"If I can only hit one ball off the tee farther than Sarazen, the day would be a complete success," he said.

Chaff'n ChatteR

By Gordon R. McIntyre

STEVE HANNEGAN claims to be the greatest motor boat racer ever staged. He cites the race below to prove the point. Here's the testimony. Judge for yourselves.

Back in 1924, when Miami was in boom, Steve was struck with a great idea to publicize the Florida city he represented. He decided on a motor boat race in Biscayne Bay. That wasn't extraordinary in itself.

So he got eleven race track drivers from the Indianapolis speedway, headed by Tommy Milton, Louis Chevrolet, Harry Hartz, Bill Wonderlick, and the rest of the reigning sensations of the day.

He got eleven speedboats, of identical power and design. They even weighed the drivers and mechanics, and added weights to them. They lined up, the gun barked, and eleven speed maniacs roared away from the mark at 50 miles an hour. They headed for the first turn in a line, no one giving an inch. It was a beautiful sight.

But it just so happened that not one of the drivers had the faintest idea what to do when they did hit the sharp turn, there were no banks, like a race track.

Wildly they whipped over their wheels and immediately they disappeared from sight in clouds of spray and water. They were yelling, banging off one another, bows climbing up on sterns, spinning around, one or two turns over.

But those still afloat never let up on the trottles. They got out of it somehow and Tommy Milton limped into the dock with his craft, sinking rapidly.

First and Last
Gar Wood, who has raced the flying egg crates everywhere, could not contain himself. He rushed to the dock to greet Milton.

"Tommy," he said, wild with excitement, "that was the greatest start in the history of motor boat racing. I've never seen anything like that turn. It was magnificent."

Milton shakily pulled off his helmet and goggles.

"Mr. Wood," he said, "I'm glad you saw it. If we knew as much about speed boats as you do you never would have seen it. You can just bet this, you'll never see it again."

Mrs. O. P. Hill Seeks Another Women's Title

Chicago—(P)—Mrs. Opal Hill of Kansas City, who won her second straight women's western golf title last week, today started after another of the association's titles, the 72-hole medal play crown.

Against Mrs. Hill were her finalist opponent last week, Lucille Robinson of Des Moines, Ia.; Virginia Van Wile of Chicago; Mrs. Austin Pardee, Minneapolis; Mrs. John Arends, Detroit; Mrs. Roy Greene, Glendale, Cal.; Mrs. J. Walter Beyer of Tulsa, Okla., and more than 50 others.

Black Creek Loses To Cecil; Score 10-1

Black Creek—Cecil beat Black Creek by a score of 10 and 1 Sunday at Cecil. The game showed errors on both sides because the ball was wet from drizzling rain that fell during the game.

Gottschalk of Cecil allowed only four hits and Bub Shaw of Black Creek 11 hits. B. Marks, after gaining first base on a fielder's choice, scored on hits by H. Erickson and R. Rohloff for the only Black Creek run.

Hagen, Creavy, Diegel, Burke and Others Seek Pro Title

BY PAUL MCKELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. PAUL—(P)—Golf's longest "marathon," the annual Professional Golfers' association championship, moved into its first lap today with 105 of America's stars struggling to win 31 lanes that lead toward the throne room.

Only one pro had his place won and that was the defending champion, Tom Creavy of Albany, N. Y., an automatic qualifier. All the others, among them far more famed marksmen of golf, were confronted with a 36 hole qualifying test that had to be won.

Except for Gene Sarazen and Leo Diegel, who failed to qualify in the metropolitan test, virtually every professional of note was in the bus drive over the Keller course and one guess as to the ultimate winner in the 216 holes, six-day championship battle was as good as another.

Creavy as champion ranked among the favorites but was somewhat over-shadowed by such veterans as "light horse" Harry Cooper of Chicago, Canadian open champion and winner of the $10,000 St. Paul open last year.

Paul opened over the same Keller layout in 1930; Walter Hagen of Detroit, five times champion of the P. G. A. event and so determined to add another that he came on the scene a day ahead of time for practice; Tommy Armour of Detroit; master iron shot maker on a home made Armour course; Billy Burke of Greenwich, Conn., 1931 national open champion, and a host of others including Horton Smith, winner of the St. Paul open last year.

Shute, runner-up to Creavy in the championship in 1930, and John Farrell, Paul Runyan, John Golden, Olin Dutra, Ed Dudley, Al Watrous and Joe Turnesa.

Cooper Likes Course
Cooper probably stood out as the biggest favorite of the group not only on the strength of his game, now at tops, but because of his ability to play the Keller course.

Farrell, one of the shrewdest commentators of the game, and others cast their vote for him as the one man to beat in the struggle that doesn't end until Sunday night after 36 holes of golf daily.

The championship Keller course was a different looking layout today than it was when almost the same field toured it during the St. Paul opens of 1930 and '31. Its fairways were lined with 32 new traps for an added set of handicaps while the grass in the rough was thicker and tougher. Par's greatest ally, a stiff westerly wind, also threatened to be on hand along with a spell of rain much of the week. Several excellent practice rounds, some of them dangerously near Dudley's course record of 66, were turned in but they didn't mean anything.

After today's qualifying round, the 31 low scorers will join Creavy in the struggle over the match play route. One round will be played daily at 36 holes through the finals on Sunday.

Mrs. O. P. Hill Seeks Another Women's Title

Chicago—(P)—Mrs. Opal Hill of Kansas City, who won her second straight women's western golf title last week, today started after another of the association's titles, the 72-hole medal play crown.

Against Mrs. Hill were her finalist opponent last week, Lucille Robinson of Des Moines, Ia.; Virginia Van Wile of Chicago; Mrs. Austin Pardee, Minneapolis; Mrs. John Arends, Detroit; Mrs. Roy Greene, Glendale, Cal.; Mrs. J. Walter Beyer of Tulsa, Okla., and more than 50 others.

Eighteen holes were scheduled for today and tomorrow, with the final 36 holes to be played Thursday.

Black Creek Loses To Cecil; Score 10-1

Black Creek—Cecil beat Black Creek by a score of 10 and 1 Sunday at Cecil. The game showed errors on both sides because the ball was wet from drizzling rain that fell during the game.

Gottschalk of Cecil allowed only four hits and Bub Shaw of Black Creek 11 hits. B. Marks, after gaining first base on a fielder's choice, scored on hits by H. Erickson and R. Rohloff for the only Black Creek run.

Casey Jensen was the umpire. Seymour visits Black Creek next Sunday.

Pepper Martin May Try Playing Third

St. Louis—(P)—"Pepper" Martin, whose sensational batting in the world series last fall won him fame overnight, may be moved in closer to the spectators.

Gabby Street, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, shifted Martin from center to third base recently in a series of "experiments" designed to strengthen the world champions' defensive play.

Sparky Adams, suffering from an injured knee, recently voluntarily retired for the season, creating the big problem of filling his place at third. Martin had little chance to show his fitness for third base in the doubleheader against the Brooklyn Dodgers, getting only two chances—one when he caught a line drive and the other when he accepted a throw to retire a runner at third.

New York — The stock market again churned about without getting anywhere in particular today. Alternate strength in various groups failed to attract a following and the list ran into considerable selling in the last few minutes. The close was irregular, with most changes narrow. Transfers approximated 3,800,000 shares.

Commission house advices indicated a feeling that the approach of the Labor day holiday weekend might prompt considerable profit taking, and that evidently tended to make traders cautious. Another factor was the continued indifferent performance of bonds, which have been lagging for several sessions. In both stock and bonds, the railroad issues appear to have been adversely affected by the July operation of the first 62 reports for July shows that gross was off about 36 percent from last year, while June had been off 33 percent. Nevertheless, friends of the carrier issues felt that the August reports would be somewhat more favorable, and hoped for marked improvements in the later months of the year.

In connection with the buying of the motor and accessory stocks some automobile concerns have reported a little pickup in sales in August, from the extremely low levels of July. Most Wall-st observers, however, have not expected much of a revival in the motor industry before October, although the Ford plants are slated to resume Sept. 6. Coppers were helped by a slight firming of the domestic metal price, up 1 cent to 53. Lead prices were advanced 1-10 cent to 36-10, up about half a cent in a fortnight. Wool was a strong spot in the commodities, wool top futures rising about 3 cents a pound, the sharpest advance since trading was started in New York in May of last year.

Live Stock Trade Again Starts Slow

Receipts in All Classes Far Exceeds the Advance Estimates

Chicago — Trade in live stock today was again slow getting under way, long procession of trucks hauling in offerings, mostly hogs, being the delaying factor. Apprehension that the farmers' marketing holiday would spread and desire to cash stock stimulated the marketward movement to the extent that receipts of all classes far exceeded the advance estimate, there being 3,000 cattle, 2,000 hogs, and 3,000 sheep more than anticipated by advance reports. The market was fairly steady, but estimates placed the number above the record of 512 received two months ago.

Initial sales of hogs were 5c to 15c lower, making a new low basis for the last two months. On the first rounds select 190 to 220 lb. offerings stopped at 4.55, with 230 to 260 lb. averages from $4.15 to 4.40. The number of spring shoats increased and kinds skinned 140 to 170 lbs. bulked at $4.00 to 4.30 while a few light sows sold around $3.75. Added to the fresh run were 100 to 150 lb. hogs, mostly from the West, which, along with record hot weather for this season, were price depressing factors.

The overrun in cattle receipts, plus state stock over from Monday, affected trade in cattle today. Plain quality offerings again predominated and such stock received quarter lower bids. High-dressing heavy bullocks were priced above $10. Most of the steers were of class to sell from $6.75 to 3.75. Grass beef cows bulked at $2.75 to 3.75 and gray heifers mostly from $4.50 to 6.00, with price range fed quotable as high as $3.00.

There were only 1,000 direct sheep on hand today. The market supply was made up largely of range lambs, there being 62 cars of Washington, Idaho and Montana on hand. Best westerns were held at $6 and better. Best natives were held at $5.25 to 6.75. Demand for feeder lambs continued strong at prices up to $5.25. Killer ewes were valued as high as $2.50.

Wheat Reflects Down Trend of Cotton, Stocks

Corn Gathers Strength During Morning; Damage Reports Help

BY GILES L. FINDLEY
Associated Press Market Writer

Chicago — Wheat reflected the reactionary tendency of cotton and stocks today and the general trend was downward. Fairly heavy selling at the start was later overcome by purchasing from professional operators and at one stage the market was steady with yesterday's finish, but the market was not stable. Routine news was disregarded, as was strength at Liverpool. Corn trade was the largest in several months. The Commission houses were in the market in a liberal way, both buying and selling. Oats were also in broader demand, but were unsettled with wheat. Provisions eased with hogs, gain and cotton.

About midsession, wheat was steady to 1 lower than yesterday's finish, and corn was steady to 1 higher. Corn gathered strength during the morning as trade gained momentum. Business in the corn pit was heavy with considerable buying by commission houses reported. A Topeka report told of severe damage to corn there from heat. Profit-taking sales at the start were heavy, but were readily absorbed by commission house buying, mostly in small lots and the market soon started upward again. Heavy new buying, said to be by a prominent Chicago professional operator, brought wheat to yesterday's closing level, but there the market rested.

Foreign markets were strong. Liverpool was higher in response to advances here yesterday and because of a more optimistic outlook by European grain speculators. Winnipeg showed strength because of rain causing further delay in harvest operations with the possibility of damage to the unthreshed grain. Corn and oats followed provisions lacked support.

Decision Awaited In Golf Tourney

Verdict by Committee Necessary Before Match
Is Settled

Kaukauna — The rules committee of the Kaukauna Golf club had made no decision Monday in the mixup caused in the semi-finals Sunday of the tournament for the president's trophy at the local course. The question arose in the L. Gerend-J. Stalld match, when Gerend's ball struck the golf bag of F. Hilgenberg on the ninth hole of the first round of the match. By striking the bag the ball bounded near the cup. If the rules committee decides the hole in favor of Gerend, he will enter the finals next Saturday.

A decision in favor of the player whose ball struck the bag would give 1 to a 1 to 0 decision over the other participant. Gerend will probably be awarded the decision. There is no rule to govern this instance. There is a rule providing for the striking of either player or his caddy or his golf bag, but no rule on the outside object. Hilgenberg also was playing in the semi-finals of the tournament.

In a defeat 4 by M. Hass, 7 to 6, Hass will meet the winner of the Gerend-Stalld match in 76 holes of tournament play next Sunday. It is possible that arrangements will be made for some program to be carried out in conjunction with the staging of the finals next Sunday.
